NEW YORK FIRE-TRAP INQUIRY

NEW YORK, March 27.—Spurred on by the most appalling casualty record in a city fire since the burning of the steamer General Slocum, the criminal authorities of New York County exerted themselves today to establish evidence warranting indictments for those responsible for 143 deaths in the Triangle Waist Company's factory at Washington place and Greene street late Saturday afternoon.

In another twenty-four hours the list of dead is likely to grow to 150, as five patients in hospitals are expected to succumb to their injuries. One hundred and one bodies of the victims have been identified.

Coincident with the criminal investigation, in which the District Attorney's and coroner's offices co-operated, there was unwonted stir in the various city departments entrusted with supervising safeguards against loss of life.

Arthur J. O'Keefe, deputy fire commissioner, told Coroner Holtzhauer today that the fire department had completed of the Washington place building+ to the building department and that the department had taken no notice.

Fire Marshal's Inquiry.

When Fire Marshal Beer began his official investigation to-day Fire Commissioner Hitzleander Waldo ordered that it be held in public, so that all would know the character of the testimony taken. Fifteen witnesses were on hand when the inquiry opened, and Isaac Stern, superintendent of the Asch building, the scene of the holocaust, was the first witness called.

Stern was excused when he said he was not upon the premises at the time of the fire although he was on the stand long enough to say that he knew of no violations of the building code. John Casey, the engineer, said he knew nothing about conditions in the death zone on the three topmost floors and also was excused.

Negligence is charged against the Bureau of Buildings, and Rudolph T. Miller, superintendent, will be called upon to explain the lack of protection for the workers.

The validity of the appointment of Rudolph J. Miller as superintendent of buildings was questioned to-day. Miller was in Panama on a two weeks' vacation at the time of the Washington place disaster and is now burrying home. According to the report, Miller at the time of his appointment by Borough President McKinny expressed some doubt as to whether he qualified under the law, which required that every superintendent of buildings should be a "competent architect or builder of at least ten years' experience."

Twenty-five years ago Miller was graduated from Columbia as a civil engineer, but he is not a practical architect. He told Mr. McKinney this, and the borough president, according to the superintendent's brother, declared:

"Oh, that doesn't matter. You fill all the requirements of the law, and I will vouch for you."

Of the 101 bodies identified, only sixteen were men. The victims whose bodies had been claimed by their families were mostly young girls, one of them being only fourteen years old. Another was a girl of fifteen. Six were sixteen years old, twelve were seventeen, thirteen were eighteen, twelve were nineteen, and the remainder twenty or more.

While thousands were tramping the lanes of death in the morgue at the foot of West Twenty-sixth street in an attempt to identify the remaining dead, three other investigations in addition to that of Dis-

BOSTON IN DANGER OF HOLOCAUST

"Things are in bad shape in Boston, and there is no use in disguising the fact or seeking to cover it up," declared Superintendent of Building Construction Arthur G. Everett to-day, when asked to talk about the New York fire horror.

"Boston is worse off than New York, and the consequences in case of such a fire in many of our manufacturing establishments such as that which swept through Grosse street Saturday would be even too horrible for contemplation.

"Business Boston is honeycombed with traps of death. The building department of the city is doing everything it possibly can to insure safe conditions in our manufacturing establishments as well as our lodging houses. The fire department of the city gives us good co-operation, but there are many troubles.

Building Inspectors Needed.

"The particular evils are that many of our modern buildings are put to different uses than intended when constructed and that Boston has a deplorable insufficiency of building inspectors. We have but three building inspectors for this city of over half a million people. We have 100,000 buildings in Boston. Of course the greater part of these buildings do not need constant inspection. But there are thousands of buildings, built for manufacturing and mercantile purposes that do require practically constant inspection.

"It is impossible for this department with but three inspectors of buildings to provide this inspection. Time and time again, year after year, we have asked for, while upon an occurrence points out a lesson, this department has called for men but our request has fallen upon ears apparently deaf.

"Nothing whatever has been done to strengthen the department of inspection and to provide what Boston should have, a rigorous looking-after of all our manufacturing and business establishments as well as hotels and lodging houses where the peril of death by fire, exists only during the night time.

Honeycombed with Firetraps.

"Boston is honeycombed with traps of death in the business section. We compel alterations and radical changes just as far as we learn of conditions. There is a co-operation between the fire department, the building department and the police department so that just as fast as we learn of perilous conditions and following special inspection by our overworked force, the matter is turned over to the law department and unless our orders for changes in conditions are complied with the building is at once ordered vacated.

"The one great trouble is not that our modern buildings, and even the old-timers, are not supplied with fire escapes or suitable modes of egress, but that buildings are put to a different use from that originally intended.

"A factory building is erected and the plans filed in this office may provide that the two upper floors are to be used for storage. It should be provided that these two upper stories were to be used for the storage of glass, the building department would be careful to see that proper strength was provided for the upper floors and walls. After a few months instead of using these upper floors for storage, machines are put in and a hundred girls are employed making clothing or in some other manufacturing pursuit.

Matters of Oversight.

"The building department would never think of ordering fire escapes on lofts to be used for storage. Nor would the department consider compelling the owners of buildings to put in several staiways, leading out in different directions. It would not be necessary. Neither the building department nor the fire department is ever notified of the change of uses to which a building has been put, until by some change, through a small fire or some fortunate circumstance, the authorities gain knowledge of the changed uses to which the building has been put.

"The fire department notifies this department and we get busy at once with our inspectors. Such the changes are made. It is perfectly true, however, that with but three building inspectors we cannot go over all the buildings of Boston and must depend almost wholly upon information given to us concerning the changed uses to which buildings are put. The evil of filling sweat-shops with women and girls at work in manufacturing pursuits is one of the worst in Boston in my mind so far as peril from fire is concerned.

"Outside fire escapes are not always needed on buildings of manufacturing concerns even though the employes in many work many stories up. Wide and efficient stairways, plenty in number and leading down in different directions from the floors should be cut off the others would remain, as in the greater number of cases, are a sufficient guarantee against any panic or peril in a fire. Still, as conditions disclose themselves, we require the outside fire escape, and not only on new buildings, but where we learn of unusual conditions in the old buildings.

2 KILLED IN FACTORY EXPLOSION

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 27.—Two men are dead, one other probably fatally injured and seven were severely hurt by the bursting of a twenty-inch steam pipe early to-day in the power plant of the northern division of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company.

A steel cap on a joint of the steam pipe was blown off and the great volume of steam, with a pressure of 170 to 180 pounds to the inch, screamed out with such tremendous force that one man in the basement, where the pipe was, was blown through a window and the heavy floor above was heaved upward as though by the force of an earthquake.

The blinding, blistering steam leaped up through the opening, filling the large room so that the men could not see which way to turn. There were nine men in this room. One was killed and all the others badly hurt.

DEAD.

JAMES CASSIDY, an employe. Had been at the mill only a short time and was not generally known.

RONALD C. CRAWFORD of the General Electric Company of Boston, burned about face and body, died at Sacred Heart Hospital.

THE INJURED.

FRANK S. BYER, seventeen years of age, Manchester High School athlete. Blown through window into canal. Critical condition. Sacred Heart Hospital.

ALEXANDER PETTIGREW, engineer. Severely scalded. Taken to hospital.

CATER WEBSTER, assistant engineer. Severely scalded. Taken to hospital.

JAMES McFARLAND, pipe worker, burned and cut by glass. Taken to hospital.

WALTER JAMES, pipe worker, slightly scalded. Taken home.

EDWARD CARR, steam fitter. Scalded. Taken home.

Rush Ambulances to Scene.

The accident took place at 6:30 o'clock, just after a large force of men had left the building, otherwise there would have been a much greater loss of life.

The wildest excitement followed the report of the explosion. The report first was to the effect that there had been a railroad accident and that many persons had been killed and injured. All of the police of the city and all of the ambulances were rushed to the scene of the disaster.

The Northern division power plant of the Amoskeag Mills are located on the bank of the Merrimac, near the main line of the Boston & Maine railroad, near the Amoskeag Falls.

Steam and electricity are generated there for the running of the Langdon and other mills. The steam is carried 2,000 feet in a pipe that has an inside diameter of twenty inches. Care had been taken to have this pipe of the very best material because of the tremendous pressure.

The big pipe formed a Y in the basement of the structure, lined with a steel cap. This basement is about 150 by 40 feet in size. It has a height of about eight feet.

Flooring Torn Loose.

Without warning the steel cap at the joint of the pipe was torn off with a roar that drowned the noise of the machinery in the building and the roar of the falls not far away.

The steam shooting out against the stone wall of the building foundation was deflected upward with a force that would seem incredible. The heavy plank flooring was shot upward as though it had been made of paper.

All of the contents of the basement were

SNOW STORM IS ON THE WAY TO BOSTON

Weather forecasts indicate that Spring time has not come to stay for keeps on the way. The official statement reads: "Rain tonight. Tuesday, probably snow, followed by clearing and colder weather Tuesday night. The wind will blow from the southwest or west, and be high." A dispatch from Chicago tells of a heavy snow storm in the Middle West. It followed a heavy rainfall. The Boston weather bureau has issued a storm warning to all Atlantic coast ports from Eastport, Me., to Cape Hatteras, on the Carolinas. The storm which is coming to Boston started in the Lake Michigan region and is moving east and south. The storm is preceded by a cold wave, heralded by high winds. The temperature at 8 o'clock in Boston this morning was 38, in Chicago 38, in New York 40 and 25 degrees below zero at The Pas, Saskatchewan. The temperature tells of a cold wave due in New England within a day or two.

THE WEATHER.

Rain to-night; Tuesday probably snow, followed by clearing; colder Tuesday; high south to west winds.

Sun rises 5:36, sets 6:02.

Moon rises 4:37 a. m.

High tide 8:54 a. m., 9:24 p. m.

THE NEW CHAMPION!

Mayor Fitzgerald has surprised some of his acquaintances in the art of wrestling, according to a story current at City Hall. There seems to be plenty of work cut out for him.

CENSORS AT 2 PLAYS TONIGHT

Chief Clerk Timothy Butler and Licenser Clerk John Casey, Censors of Public Morals by virtue of Mayoral appointment, will sit with critical eyes to-night two theatrical offerings that will be presented for the first time in Boston. "Two Women," at the Hosbert, and "The Girl from Rector's," at the Globe Theatre.

Assisting these staff officers of Boston's new crusaders will be representatives of Police Commissioner O'Meara and probably several other delegates of Mayor Fitzgerald. Tomorrow there will be a comparing of notes and if these latest productions are found not to measure up to the moral standard required by the Mayor, an official edict will banish them from the purlieus of Boston, just as "The Easiest Way" was banished.

Mayor Doesn't Like Job.

"I don't like this job," said the Mayor, "but it is part of the duty of the Mayor and Police Commissioner to see that the plays are fit, and however unpleasant it may be to stop the production of a play, it has to be necessary."

Mr. Fitzgerald would not disclose the names of those who will assist Messrs. Butler and Casey in weighing the merits or demerits of the plays under scrutiny, because, he said, "of the ridicule that may follow their efforts." But he does not believe that either of the new shows will be found so wholly bad that it cannot, with the aid of the mayoral blue pencil, be so pruned and purified as to be presentable to Boston audiences. The search for offensive lines and situations will, however, be none the less unremitting.

Mrs. Leslie Carter, who is the star of "Two Women," believes the Mayor will have his trouble for his pains.

Her Play Like a Sermon.

"My new play," said Mrs. Carter to-day, "teaches a moral lesson. It exercises the same influence on that which sends a congregation home after a good sermon, resolving to live a better life. Women have been in the majority in our audiences, and we have got to hear a single word of disapproval. I hope the Mayor may come and personally see the play. There is not even a suggestion of immorality in it, and if some people think otherwise I should like to have them examined as to their fitness to judge plays."

MORSE AND WALSH TO STAY IN PRISON

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Charles W. Morse and John R. Walsh, the convicted bankers, must complete their sentences. According to reliable information here to-day, President Taft has decided not to exercise executive clemency in the case of either. His decision was taken on the report of Attorney-General Wickersham on the applications for pardon.

WAR ON SQUIRRELS.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 27.—Maine farmers are happy that the law which has protected gray squirrels has been removed. Hereafter gray squirrels will be recognized as "game" and may be shot during the month of September. The State is overrun with gray squirrels, and last year they did thousands of dollars of damage to the crops.

DISARM MAN WHO SHOT TWO IN STRUGGLE

HUDSON, March 27.—After a fierce fight in the office of the A. D. Gleason woolen mill in Gleasondale to-day, Phineas Feather, former superintendent of the mill and now living in Boston, was overpowered and placed under arrest on a charge of shooting Charles E. Roberts, present superintendent, through the right lung in a dispute over back pay which Feather claims.

When Roberts was shot A. D. Gleason, the millionaire owner of the mills, grappled with Feather and threw him to the floor. In the scuffle a second revolver dropped from Feather's pocket and was discharged on striking the floor. The bullet hit Feather in the left elbow.

Feather, despite his wound, kept fighting with Mr Gleason. He kept his hold on the revolver with which he had shot Superintendent Roberts, and pulled the trigger once. The bullet went through the left hand of Robert Davis, a mill operative, who ran into the room in answer to the screams of Miss Lena Hickey, the bookkeeper.

Took Revolver From Him

Then Gleason and Davis subdued Feather and took away his revolver. Feather was then taken in custody by James Croft, chief of police of Stow, in which township Gleasondale is located. Croft brought Feather to Hudson jail.

Superintendent Roberts was rushed to Clinton Hospital in Mr. Gleason's automobile. His condition is dangerous. The bullet, entering his right shoulder, took a downward course through the right lung.

Feather's elbow and Davis's hand were dressed at the mill office.

This affair, in which three men were wounded, culminated a series of disputes which Feather had had with Gleason and Roberts over back pay which Feather says is due him. Phineas Feather was superintendent of the Gleason mills for twenty-three years. He is fifty-two years old. He lived in Gleasondale till he was discharged from the mill a year ago. Then he moved to this town. Six months ago he moved with his family to Boston. His daughter is employed in a Boston department store.

Feather was succeeded as superintendent by Charles E. Roberts, an ex-Selectman and very popular in the community. Roberts was bookkeeper under Feather. He is married and lives in Gleasondale. He is past exalted ruler of Hudson Lodge of Elks.

After the shooting to-day it was said that Feather has been coming to the mill office to claim back pay till he was ordered by Gleason's lawyer to keep away from there. Then he came to the mill office at 9:30 and began to argue with Mr. Gleason. Roberts and Miss Hickey, the bookkeeper, were present.

Argument With Roberts.

Getting no satisfaction from Mr. Gleason, Feather turned to Roberts. There was a brief argument. Then, according to the general statement, Feather drew a revolver and fired point blank at Roberts from a range of less than one yard. Roberts dropped to the floor.

Mr. Gleason, who was standing back of Feather, jumped forward and grabbed Feather around the neck, forcing him back to the floor. Then Feather's second revolver fell to the floor and was discharged, wounding Feather through the left elbow. Gleason, though sixty years old maintained his grip on Feather and tried to get the first revolver away from his former superintendent.

Feather managed to shoot again in his wild struggles the revolver happened to aim directly at Robert Davis, coming through the door of the operating room. Davis felt the bullet pass through his left hand. But he kept on and assisted Mr. Gleason in subduing Feather.

Meanwhile Miss Hickey had telephoned the alarm police, bringing Chief Croft. After the chief arrived Feather made no further trouble. He went quietly to Hudson jail.

Before he was taken from the mill office Feather was asked what he came to the mill for.

"To get a lot of money that is due me," he said, "I talked with Mr. Gleason and got no settlement."

"What is your trouble with Superintendent Roberts?" he was asked.

"I have no trouble with Roberts," muttered Feather. "They tell me I shot Roberts. I never meant to do that."

ASYLUM HEADS ARE ACCUSED

Immediately arrest every attendant found maltreating an insane asylum inmate and give him a long term in jail. That is the remedy proposed by Dr. George W. Galvin, of No. 170 Huntington avenue, who in a letter detailing with facts, tells the citizens of Massachusetts that it will no longer do to permit the outrages admitted to be daily perpetrated in the enormously costly chain of thirteen insane asylums in this State.

Dr. Galvin's letter follows in part:

"After years of ineffectual efforts to obtain a hearing before our legislative committees and different assemblies at the State House, including a conference, Senators and Representatives of the Lower House, in behalf of our unfortunates incarcerated in our asylums for insane and penal institutions, VICTIMS OF THE WHEELS OF OUR LEGAL MACHINERY WHO ARE BEATEN AND MURDERED BY ATTENDANTS, it is gratifying to the writer that Dr. Vernon L. Briggs, one of my first students and now a prominent alienist, should take up the cause of those who cannot speak for themselves, and if I were the praying kind would offer a sincere appeal that his noble work will be crowned with success.

Remember Tewksbury.

"Remember the boy murdered at the Lyman School and the murderer remains a part of the trustees of this institution.

"Remember the orderly kicked to death at Austin Farm, and the two murderers received but two years at Deer Island, and the poor old mother left to sniff for herself.

"The Swede Olsen met his death by violence the grind day after his commitment at Medfield.

"Remember the brutal treatment and deaths of boys at the Westboro Reformatory, culminating in the night shoulder-to-shoulder parade, and the thirty-three denounced in such scathing terms.

"Remember Benjamin F. Butler's grave words at Tewksbury in still a memory.

"Mr. Long and I can furnish the names of many other victims whose deaths are not mysterious in relation, but their causes are hidden by lying certificates of boastful physicians and State medical examiners. How can State charges—and 90 per cent. of them come from the ranks of the worker—be protected from these hyenas in human form? The only effective remedy under the present system, which is responsible in grafting business men, who employ craftsmen know as "politicians, is "TO NOT PERMIT PATIENTS BY LETTER TO COMMUNICATE WITH THE OUTSIDE WORLD. Secrecy in asylums is cruel, unjust and unwise or later unbalance.

DAUGHTER OF GERMAN AMBASSADOR A BRIDE

WASHINGTON, March 27.—In the presence of a distinguished company including the President of the United States and Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft, the New York society leader, Countess von Bernstorff, daughter of the German Ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff, and the Count Hay maud Partenio, attache of the embassy, took place here to-day.

MRS. PRESSON DIES AT THE HOTEL BRUNSWICK

Mrs. Charles H. Presson, wife of Charles H. Presson of the Stock Exchange, is dead at the Hotel Brunswick. She was sixty six years old. Mrs. Presson was a native of Gloucester, her maiden name being Emily Adams Dead, the daughter of John W. and Emily Cressy Dead. She was descended from one of the best known Gloucester families. Mrs. Presson married Mr. Presson forty-five years ago. The body will be taken to Gloucester to-day to be interred in the family lot in Oak Grove Cemetery. One sister, Mrs. George H. Morton of this city, besides her husband survives Mrs. Presson.

SENATOR BOURNE TO SPEAK AT FORD HALL

Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon, president of the National Progressive Republican League, will speak at Ford Hall on Thursday evening on "Popular vs. Delegated Government." The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Boston City Club. It is anticipated that it will be discovered at that meeting that there is truth in the rumors that Senator La Follette is launching a presidential boom in Boston.

DOUBLE-HEADED CALF.

CAPE ELIZABETH, Me., March 27.—A double headed Holstein black and white calf was recently born on the farm of Z. C. Meader. Both heads were perfectly formed. Mr. Meader will have the curiosity mounted.

"REAL BOSTON" HEARING HELD

At a hearing before the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs to-day on bills to provide for a Metropolitan Boston or a "Real Boston," as the Chamber of Commerce styles it, ex-Representative Marcus G. Bennett of Boston told the committee that he advised substituting the Chamber of Commerce "federation" bill for his own bill.

"The Chamber of Commerce bill is nearly the same," said Mr. Bennett, "with the addition of two sections and with some minor changes."

There was a large attendance at the hearing. A dozen women were in the throng. Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the legislative committee of the "Real Boston" movement in the Chamber of Commerce, told the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs that there were fully forty speakers who should be heard, and that the municipalities were concerned in the matter and each community should be represented in the argument.

Mr. Bennett Speaks.

Then Mr. Bancroft introduced ex-Representative Bennett, father of the first bill up for consideration. His bill calls for the creation of the federation of Metropolitan Boston and an advisory representative council therefor.

"I am proposing that the bill of the Chamber of Commerce be substituted for my bill," said Mr. Bennett. "The Chamber of Commerce bill is nearly the same, except that two sections have been added and some minor changes made in the text.

"The Metropolitan Boston bills, which have been considered in the past, are the outcome of the growth of many years. In 1893 the health authorities found that unless something was done in the matter of sewerage the annexation of sewerage plants must come.

Money for Sewers.

"About $30,000,000 has been or will be spent in this direction. We have sewerage systems, water mains and parks to show that there is close connection between communities.

"The bill proposed is not only to care for these but aim is for many other things in common.

"If the transit question of Metropolitan Boston seems to need consideration, the proposed advisory council could handle it.

BRANDEIS DENIES RUNNING THE B. & O.

Louis D. Brandeis denies that he was in charge of the operating department of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad during the month of February last, as was stated in a dispatch from Baltimore. In this story it was stated that Mr. Brandeis had greatly increased the net earnings of the road for the short month of the year, but this Mr. Brandeis also denied.

"I have had nothing to do about any such matter," said Mr. Brandeis. I complimented President Willard on the progress that he has made, but that is as far as I have been concerned with the affairs of that road."

BLIZZARD IN WEST; DROP OF 20 DEGREES

OMAHA, March 27.—After more than a week of mild weather, blizzard conditions prevailed in Nebraska and western Iowa. A moderate north wind prevailing during the earlier hours increased at nightfall, and with it came considerable snow and a fall in temperature of from sixteen to twenty degrees.

EXPLOSION IN FACTORY FATAL

landed across the floor—sections of iron weighing 200 pounds being blown about as though they were feathers.

The blasting, burning steam, pouring out with such frightful force, soon turned the building into darkness as dense as midnight. Two men on the floor above, severely burned and not knowing just what had happened, proved themselves heroes at this crucial juncture.

Engineer Alexander Pettigrew realized that the steam in the inlet to the shaft would all perish. Through the gloom he plunged into the engine room and shouted to Harry Morrow, the fireman, to shut off the steam. This Morrow was able to accomplish.

Some Others in Peril.

Shut off the electric power," Pettigrew shouted to Unter Webster, and this was done.

By this prompt and efficient work the lives of some of the men were undoubtedly saved.

On the floor above the basement where the boilers and electric motors were, casualty was standing over the gap where the floor was broken through. Just how he was killed no one knew because they could not see through the steam. He was badly burned and it was believed that he had inhaled the deadly blast.

Not far from him was Ronald C. Crawford, who had come from the head office of the General Electric Company in Boston to do some work. The bursting steam had struck him with great force, burning him practically all over the body. He was found almost dead.

Escaped by Windows.

So dense was the steam that those who were able to walk had a hard time finding out. They were unable to find the doors, and some of them broke through windows, the glass of which had been shattered. McFarland was badly cut up by the glass in the window through which he escaped.

A search was made for young Byer, who was known to have gone to the basement to get something from a closet. The keys were found in the door of the closet, but the young man could not be found and police in the big basement room.

It was noticed that the windows had been smashed out, one of them being carried away, such said all. Then some one heard faint cries from the runway of the mill, in which the water was racing along.

There young Byer was found. He had been buried through the window and was so badly burned that it was thought he could not recover.

This was the first day of the young man at the mill where he wished to take up the study of electricity. He is well known throughout all New England for his skill as a football, baseball and basket ball player.

Dorchester Man Victim.

The injured men were hurried to the hospital in the large automobiles maintained by the mills. The hurting of the pipe halted work in the Coolidge and Laughon mills until they could secure power from another source.

The damage to the mills by the explosion was estimated at something like $1000.

At the office of the General Electric Works, No. 84 State street, to-day it was learned that Ronald C. Crawford's home is at No. 169 Fuller street, Dorchester. He was married three years ago. He is fifty years old. He is an employe of the General Electric Company, working in the turbine engineering department. He is known as a construction man. His wife was notified and left immediately for Manchester.

MALDEN VETERANS PLAN A MEMORIAL

It was announced today by the Malden Soldiers' and Sailors' Association that plans have been perfected for a memorial to the Grand Army veterans at a cost of $70,000. Of this amount the city will be asked to contribute $35,000, and the association will raise $17,500 by public subscription and John C. Haynes has promised to contribute $17,500 toward the erection of the building. It is proposed to erect a large arena in Main street adjoining the fire station. The principal hall will seat 1,000. There will be a smaller hall which will seat 200 which will be used by the Grand Army and affiliated societies.

ABRAHAMS SENDS ANSWER TO HARVARD

Henry Abrahams, the veteran secretary of the Cigarmakers' Union and secretary of the Boston Central Labor Union, in reply to an invitation to speak before the Harvard Socialist Club, says that he will be glad to accept provided the club is willing to listen to an address dealing with working-class problems by a non-Socialist who can see no advantage to be gained by socialism.

MELLEN WILL BE A DINNER SPEAKER

President Mellen of the New Haven Railroad will be the principal speaker at a dinner of the Boston Merchants' Association at the Hotel Somerset April 13. The subject under discussion will be Boston's transportation and harbor development. Other speakers will include Governor Foss, Gerald and W. Rodman Peabody, chairman of the Chamber's committee on metropolitan improvements.

ALLEGED SLAYER IS HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Pasquale Di George, charged with the murder of Dominic Seliero in Watertown March 18, was arraigned before Judge Loop in the Waltham district court today. He pleaded not guilty and the case was continued to next Friday, the prisoner being held without bail. Nicolo Salaro has been held for the Grand Jury on the same charge. George gave himself up to the police Saturday evening.

RIO JANEIRO—Two families, in all seven persons, including Senator Borges, were drowned while bathing.

CHILDREN DROWN STANDING IN POND

Francis, four, and Grace, six, children of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Weberg of No. 29 Winter street, North Woburn, broke through into ice and were drowned near the shore of Cummings's Pond, North Woburn. The children were found in shallow water with their heads above the water, the finger tips showing just above the surface. A little bunch of pussywillows lying on the ice nearby told of the quest that led them to their death. Mrs. Weberg was prostrated when she learned of the tragedy and is under the care of a physician. Her husband is on one of the ships of the United States Navy and no word could be sent to him.

REPUBLICANS MAY JOIN N. Y. INSURGENTS

ALBANY, N. Y., March 27.—Efforts are being made to-day to elect a Republican Senator though a combination of the Republican minority and Democratic insurgents, it was declared by Senator Brackett, Republican leader of the upper house. The situation is grave, he declared, and he said a conference aiming to join forces with the insurgents if a suitable compromise could be secured.

POPE'S HILL STATION AGENT DIES SUDDENLY

Ezra Taylor, sixty-one, station agent at Pope's Hill station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, who lived in the upper story of the station, died there suddenly last night. Mr. Taylor was a direct descendant on his mother's side of the Bates family that came over in the Mayflower, being the eighth in line. He leaves a wife and a son. The funeral will be on Wednesday at 2 o'clock at Cedar Grove.

TORNADO KILLS MANY IN ALABAMA

MONROEVILLE, Ala., March 27.—A tornado which passed over the section here south of here early this morning at 2 o'clock killed several persons and destroyed everything in its path. Fires dead were reported to-day.

STEAMSHIP HITS A FLORIDA SHOAL

KEY WEST, Fla., March 27.—Driven on a reef by a high wind, the steamship D. N. Luckenbach lies in a dangerous position upon the new ground shoal northeast of Sand Key, about five miles from Fort Forward, which went to her aid, sent a wireless call for additional assistance. The Yamacraw, which has been cruising nearby, has gone to the scene.

JANONIS CASE HEARING APRIL 10

NORTHAMPTON, March 27.—Felix Janonis, who is charged with the murder of Frank Tomel at Easthampton on the night of March 12 last, was arraigned in the court here to-day. He was represented by Julius Cook. He pleaded not guilty. The case was continued until April 10.

JOHN J. EVERSON IN BANKRUPTCY

John J. Everson of No. 149 Cabot street, Newton, to-day filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, declaring his liabilities $150,227.63, with no assets. The only secured creditor is Edward W. Everson with a claim of $78,500. Everson is a manufacturer.

BOY CONTEST HUSTLER

By The CONTEST EDITOR.

"Buster" Luther has called on the Contest Editor.

"Buster" is one of the Fall River candidates in the race for the AMERICAN'S $35,000 Prize Contest. He is known as "Buster" all over Fall River. He is entered as "Buster" Luther in this contest. You will notice his name recorded that way in the list of candidates' standing for District Three. You will notice, too, that "Buster" is pretty well up on the list.

"Buster" is a great youngster. He is five years old. He is going to be six years old in a spell. He is a spied four years across the aisle whom he had seen in daddy's restaurant, and who had promised to subscribe for the Boston AMERICAN for him.

Striding with business-like air over to the group, "Buster" said:

"Hello! I'll stand time you were giving me those subscriptions you promised me!"

The four men agreed that it was high time. So the boy got his subscriptions on the spot. And the first thing he did when he arrived home was to have daddy mail them right to the Contest Editor, so as to have them count in the double March offer. "Buster" isn't overlooking a single chance.

When he called on the Contest Editor the latter asked:

"Well, Buster, what prize are you working for?"

"I'm after that house and two lots," said the boy quickly, "and the whole thing if I can get it."

You don't notice any sign of discouragement or laziness in "Buster's" campaign. Some of the older candidates might take a leaf out of "Buster's" book.

Remember, March 27, it behooves all candidates to bear in mind that the double March offer has only three days to go. It will come to a close next Friday night at 10 o'clock. That is the last chance to get in votes by subscription to count in the special vote bonus offer. It is also the last chance to try for the Buick runabout, which is to go to the candidate polling the most votes by subscription during March.

Candidates are cautioned not to hold back March votes for April in the expectation of compensating for April prizes. No prizes will be given in April.

BUSTER LUTHER.

"Buster" Luther, of Fall River, one of the liveliest contenders in District Three in AMERICAN'S $35,000 Prize Contest.

SLANDER SUIT SPLITS SOCIETY

LONDON, March 27.—The slander suit of Baron Arnold de Forest, one of the best known figures in the fashionable set of British society, against his brother-in-law, Henry Milner, was forced to trial today. The action of the Baron in bringing the case to open trial was taken in direct defiance of the expressed wish of King George, who has attempted to prevent the linking public of certain scandals in connection with the case.

A second suit, in which slander is also alleged, has been record against Baron de Forest's mother-in-law, Lady Gerard, and that of Follow the Milner case. Mr. Clarke, the attorney, representing Baron de Forest, confirmed the charges against Mr. Milner, saying that the defendant had circulated stories to the effect that De Forest had treated his wife so brutally that she could not live with him.

After the hearing in the Milner case the Gerard case was put on and verdicts for the defendants were found in both.

CARUSO'S ILLNESS HITS BOX OFFICE

NEW YORK, March 27.—Caruso will not sing again this season, according to his physicians, and the famous tenor's absence from the opera house is playing havoc with the plans of Gatti-Casazza and the Metropolitan directors. The Metropolitan has arranged a short road tour following the close of the New York season in three weeks. Without Caruso the Metropolitan Company is just an ordinary opera company and doesn't make an especial appeal to the public. During the four weeks that Caruso has already been out the receipts have fallen off $100,000 from what was hoped to show a profit of $100,000 for the season, will now be thankful to break even. An illness from which Caruso is suffering is poisoning of the sacro-thyroid gland.

CALIFORNIA CALLS FOR DIRECT VOTE

SACRAMENTO, March 27.—The California Legislature is now on record in favor of Congress calling a convention of the States to adopt an amendment to the Federal Constitution to provide for the election of United Senators by direct vote of the people. The Sanford resolution introduced in the Senate on March 6 and adopted by that body on the 15th was adopted by the Assembly by a unanimous vote.

Consumption

Anyone interested in the cure of Consumption should get one of Eckman's booklets telling of recoveries by the use of Eckman's Alterative.

Coughs, Sudden Colds and Pneumonia may be the beginning of more serious troubles—Eckman's Alterative is the effective remedy. Read Mr. Kanely's statement:

Gentlemen: "For five or six years I was troubled with coughs and expectoration. I also had a high fever. My case was declared Consumption by my physician. I was given Cod Liver Oil, Creosote and other medicines, all without benefit.

At Christmas time, 1906, I was not expected to live. Calling another physician, I commenced the use of Eckman's Alterative, and took with excellent results and was entirely cured. During the past year I have enjoyed as good health as all weathers and have had no return or cold whatever. I give these facts to encourage others to use Eckman's Alterative."

(Signed Affidavit) James W. Kanely.

Eckman's Alterative cures Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Affections. For sale by all Riker-Jaynes stores, Houghton & Dutton's drug dept., and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet of cured cases and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

FREIGHT HANDLERS TO ASK HIGHER PAY

Six thousand freight handlers in the city, through the special wage-scale committees of their unions, will take up the question of wages at a joint meeting in Roughan Hall, Charlestown, to-night, the meeting being called by the Knights of Labor as well as the American Federation of Labor unions. These men now get $2.64 a nine-hour day. It is said they intend to ask for $2.88, and that the demand will be made on all railroads entering Boston.

ITALIAN FAIR IS OPENED BY KING

ROME, March 27.—The Italian National Exposition was opened to-day by King Victor Emmanuel, inaugurating the celebration of the 50th anniversary of Italy's freedom.

In his address opening the fair the King dwelt especially reference to the rise of Italy since the nation became an independent State, pointing out the augmented prosperity and the long peace the country has enjoyed.

GIRLS GOOD SHOTS.

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., March 27.—The young women of this town take enthusiastic over rifle shooting and have formed a "Hit or Miss Club." Seven girls are members. At the last shoot Miss Helen Gibbs and Miss Grace Allen got 47 and 48 points respectively out of a possible 50.

A WARNING TO MANY

Some Interesting Facts Regarding Health Statistics

Few people realize to what extent their health depends upon the condition of the kidneys.

The physician, in nearly all cases of serious illness, makes a chemical analysis of the patient's urine. He knows that unless the kidneys are doing their work properly, the other organs cannot be brought back to health and strength.

When the kidneys are neglected or abused in any way, serious results are sure to follow. Bright's disease, which is really an advanced form of kidney trouble, was very fatal early in the deaths in 1909, in the state of New York alone. Therefore, it behooves us to pay more attention to the health of these most important organs.

An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Swamp-Root, known as Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy.

The mild and healing influence of this preparation is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of cures.

If you feel that your kidneys require attention, and wish a sample bottle, write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper, and they will gladly forward it to you absolutely free, by mail.

Swamp-Root is sold by every druggist in bottles of two sizes—50c. and $1.00.

$2.50 in merchandise or $2.00 in cash will be given for filled Legal Stamp books at Wolf's, "My Clothier," corner Hanover and Portland Streets.

PANHANDLERS OVERRUN CITY

Complaints made today, and in fact every day for the past week, indicate that panhandlers are overrunning the city, and that many citizens are becoming annoyed at the slow pace of the police to stop wholesale begging along crowded thoroughfares and on the street corners. The beggars ply their game openly and brazenly along Boylston, Tremont and Washington streets, and on the Common.

The panhandling gang, probably believing that the negligence of the police with regard to them, are daily becoming bolder. Some complaints recently have been that the beggars have not ended with a polite refusal of a request, but have gone further and demanded money.

Those who are complaining of the audacity of the street beggars say the latter have almost reached the hold-up stage, and are no longer content with a turndown. Graphic descriptions of the panhandlers are of young roughs mainly, apparently strong and able to work and in no way deserving of charity. Pedestrians state that they have complained to the police, but that nothing has been done towards cleaning out the panhandlers. The number of complaints in the police office it was pointed out to-day, would justify immediate police activity.

LINER IN WITH A GREAT CARGO

To-day was the busiest the harbor officials have had in many months. Several large vessels docked with valuable cargoes.

The largest and most valuable cargo to be discharged was that of the palatial Hamburg American liner Graf Waldersee which brought in a cargo of 10,000 tons, valued at $2,000,000. The Waldersee is a passenger ship but there is such a large amount of goods to be shipped to Boston on the docks at Hamburg that the company officials found it necessary to press the Waldersee into the freight service. Captain Frohlich of the vessel says that he was obliged to leave large quantities of goods on the docks when the hold of the Waldersee was filled.

Among the other vessels to arrive in port were the Admiral Dewey from Jamaica, the Limon from Port Limon, Costa Rica, and the Joseph J. Cuneo from Cuba. These three vessels brought in a total of 70,000 stems of bananas, besides a large quantity of oranges, cocoanuts and other tropical fruits.

The Regnarok from Cuba arrived with 4,000 tons of sugar and the freighter Guiana from the West Indies brought in molasses. The Italian bark Venerio from the Barbadoes also reached port during the day.

DIPHTHERIA CLOSES WINTHROP SCHOOLS

Winthrop schools are closed to-day, as the result of a joint vote of the school board and the board of health, to prevent a possible epidemic of diphtheria among school children. There have been fifteen cases of the disease in various sections recently, three of them fatal.

The man or woman who does not have free access, at all times, to an encyclopedia lacks the facilities for progress, and is seriously handicapped in the effort for success.

The United Editors' Perpetual Encyclopedia

The distinguishing feature of the United Editors' Perpetual Encyclopedia is its usefulness. It is the result of the closest study of the entire Encyclopedia field to ascertain what should constitute a work that would be at once the most useful and usable, as well as the most complete and authoritative reference library possible to make in a single publication. Covering as it does completely the large field occupied by all other Encyclopedias, and made by those editors and contributors who have had experience in making nearly all the standard reference works, it introduces many new features not found in any other.

MADE FOR USE! AND WITHIN REACH OF ALL.

WHY NOT GET THE BEST?

AS PERFECT AS CAN BE MADE. "The United Editors' Perpetual Encyclopedia I find superior to any publication that I have ever examined. It is a perfect reference work, as much as can be made. I recommend it to any one and I not know where else such a fund of information can be found in a limited space."—Dr. H. DERBERISHIN, Pennsylvania Arabic Senator.

MOST SATISFACTORY REFERENCE WORK. "I am entirely familiar with the positive and comparative merits of the United Editors' Encyclopedia, and as the editorial writer on a daily newspaper having to deal accurately and intelligently with every phase of thought and current life, I have reached the decision that it is conclusively the best you have the most satisfactory and desirable reference work of general information ever gathered together under one alphabet."—CHARLES J. BAYNE, Editor Atlanta Journal.

MORE FULL AND LATER THAN OTHER ENCYCLOPEDIAS. "After a careful comparison of the United Editors' Perpetual Encyclopedia and Dictionary with several other standard encyclopedias, I found it fully more full and later. The pronunciations of the topic words appealed to all teachers to whom I showed the work. I ordered two sets, one for the High school and one for the grammar school."—ALBERT W. HARNEY, Superintendent of Schools, Washington, D. C.

THE MOST VALUABLE WORK EVER SEEN. "We purchased the United Editors' Perpetual Encyclopedia for the Board of Trade for this city. We believe it to be the most valuable work of the kind that we have ever seen."—GEO. H. WEBB, Secretary of the Board of Trade, Providence, R. I.

ADAPTED TO THE USE OF CHILDREN. "After a careful examination I believe it to be better adapted to the use of children than any I have seen, both as to the scope of subjects treated and the simplicity of the language."—CHARLES E. FOSS, Superintendent of Schools, Boston, Mass.

ELEVEN FUNERALS OF FIRE TRAP HORROR VICTIMS HELD TODAY

ordered Attorney Wallman were under way. They are being prosecuted by the fire department, the police department and the coroner's office. Governor Dix in Albany has the indictment under advisement to-day, and is expected to order a State investigation with a view to obtaining the enactment of new laws for the protection of factory workers.

Despite a rain storm thousands had gathered outside the morgue when the doors were opened at 8 o'clock. Many were women carrying babies in their arms and sobbing in hysterical grief. Police reserves and detachments of mounted police were necessary to handle the crowd.

East Side in Gloom.

While the death march proceeded through the morgue a pall of gloom hung over the East Side, where nearly all the victims lived. Scores of them were the only support of their families.

District Attorney Whitman declared that his evidence would be presented to the April grand jury. Many witnesses were summoned to the criminal court building early to-day and questioned by Deputy District Attorneys Manly, Bostwick and Rubin. A sworn statement was taken from each. Many of them were employes or ex-employes of the Triangle Waist Company. Mr. Whitman asked that no arrests be ordered or recommended by any other department until he could present his evidence to the grand jury.

The examination of the building at Washington place and Greene street, where the fire occurred, has shown so far that panic was not alone responsible for the frightful loss of life. The fact that the two iron doors in the rear of the waist company's plant on the eighth and ninth floors were locked not only prevented exit, but made it impossible to get at the fire hose in the hallway.

The police reports, making fifty bodies piled up against these doors, Chief Croker characterized the locked doors as the most shocking sight of inconceivable torture ever brought to his notice as the result of a fire.

Shutters Block Escape.

According to witnesses who had already told their story to Fire Marshal Beers, the fire escape was blocked on the seventh floor by iron shutters which were open in such a way as to prevent further progress down the escape. The investigations all concentrate upon the matter of locked doors. Fire Chief Crocker said to-day that from evidence presented to him he believes the fire would be locked. Lennie Sinsher, a former employe of the Triangle Waist Company, to-day volunteered the information that the doors were locked late in the afternoon to prevent girls from smuggling lace and taking it home with them.

Isaac Harris of Harris & Blank, owners of the waist factory, denied emphatically that the doors were ever locked.

"The doors opened inward but they were never locked," he said. "Even if the shutters on the seventh floor had been open, passage on the fire escape would be rendered impossible by the intense heat causing others of the iron shutters to buckle outward in the same manner as occurred at the great Iroquois Theatre fire in Chicago, blocking the passageway."

"There were only two stairways in the building, but Joseph J. Asch, owner, who lives in South Norwalk, declared to-day that he had never considered the city authorities to put on a third stairway. All the authorities who had charge of the investigation under way aggee that the law governing protection of factories and office buildings especially in the thickly congested quarters, is ineffective and that another tragedy of the same kind may occur at any time.

The official statement of Fire Commissioner Waldo, which will be used by the district attorney, is an arraignment of those whom Waldo holds to be responsible for the horror.

Mr. Waldo found that the single fire escape leading from the top floors of the building into an air shaft was useless. The stairways were steep and narrow and it would accommodate only a small fraction of the 500 employes in the upper floor. The investigation of the fire commissioner also showed that the fire hose in the corridor outside the locked door had not been touched.

Responsibility for the fire horror was put squarely on to the building department to-day by Joseph J. Asch, owner of the building. He gave out the following statement at the Hotel Belmont:

"I am not responsible in any way for this great loss of life. I have obeyed the law to the letter. If any one is to be blamed it is the men who framed the laws, or the officials to see that the proper laws were framed. When the building was constructed in 1901 we gave every detail of its construction to the building department and the fire department. Both of these departments approved the plans.

Equipment of Building.

"The building was equipped with one fire escape two large flights of stairs, two freight elevators and two passenger elevators. These seemed to me as they seemed to the building and fire department to be sufficient exits for the number of people who would occupy the building. I considered the building fire proof and still consider it so.

"When the Triangle Shirt Waist owners moved into the building six years ago, they looked it over carefully and considered the exits sufficient. They did not ask for more exits or even hint they wanted more. When they increased their force of employes no request was made to me to provide further exits. I would have been glad to have made any changes asked for. At no time has the building department or the fire underwriters ever asked me for more exits or other means of protection.

"This is a terrible thing that has happened and it is preying on my mind. I am willing to answer all questions as to who is responsible, for I have followed the law to the letter. If there had been other exits I believe the catastrophe would have been just as bad. The people became panic stricken."

Eleven More Victims Buried

Eleven of the victims of the fire trap were buried to-day by the Hebrew Free Burial Society, bringing the total of the buried to 18. The first funerals were held yesterday. The Hebrew Free Burial Society agreed to pay the expenses of all the girls whose families are too poor to defray them. All of the eleven buried to-day were so badly burned that recognition was impossible.

The Red Cross Society has started a movement for the erection of fire escapes. Mayor Gaynor requested this and at the same time gave his personal check for $100 to start a fund. Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of J. P. Morgan, has announced to-day that she will work for the enactment of better laws.

"This is the most ghastly thing that ever happened in this city," declared Miss Morgan. "It should arouse every man, woman and child to immediate action to bring about the right kind of legislation. We should have a mass meeting of our citizens that for size and intelligence would be the greatest ever held in America. It must be done surely and intelligently. Hysterics will not do any good. What causes is the inefficiency of legislation. The people toward a single purpose. Think of those women and girls going down to their death in that unspeakably cruel way! Our work for the moment must be to try to care for the families of the victims, but the big thing to be done is to arouse the people to the necessities. If New Yorkers do not rise fit consequence of this disaster they are surely without public or personal conscience."

A WARNING TO BOSTON FROM NEW YORK

Death the Harvest of Ignorance and Incompetence

POLICE SEEK TO ENJOIN MAYOR

Five Cambridge policemen went to law order against the Mayor over a matter of promotion to the rank of sergeant.

They filed a bill in equity with the Supreme Court to prevent the Mayor and the Civil Service Commission from promoting and certifying other patrolmen. They claim to be the only ones eligible.

The five suitors are Charles J. McCarthy, Edward McCaffrey, James H. Holt, David I. Walsh and Ralph H. Hurley. Through their attorney, John H. Hurley, they filed their bill at East Cambridge. When Hurley retired to Boston to seek an order of notice and a temporary injunction.

The petitioners declare that they, with Edward J. Comerford, Richard H. Aylward and John F. Winslow, constituted last Saturday the entire civil service list of patrolmen in Cambridge police eligible for promotion.

Six Others Examined.

Saturday the Mayor appointed Aylward and Winslow as sergeants. Comerford did not seek appointment, and he is not petitioning.

The other five says that, after promoting Aylward and Winslow, the Mayor sent the names of six other patrolmen to the civil service commission for them to take examinations to-day to qualify for promotion. The petitioners say all this is a direct disregard of their rights to promotion.

The six named by the Mayor to take examinations are Edward J. Welch, Joseph F. McCarthy, Timothy J. Leahy, Peter F. Murphy, Patrick J. Real and Fred M. Shaw. They began the examination to-day.

Would Tie Mayor's Hands.

Although it was too late to-day for the six disappointed ones to seek to stop the examination of the other six, they ask in their bill of equity for an injunction to restrain the Mayor from appointing any of the six. They also ask to restrain the Civil Service Commission from certifying them if appointed.

There are five more promotions to the office of sergeant to be made.

MAYOR URGES NEW FIRE LAW

Mayor Fitzgerald believes the way to safeguard Boston from a fire catastrophe like that in New York is stricter building laws and their rigid enforcement.

"A fire catastrophe like that in New York naturally impels us to redouble our activities to safeguard the lives of the public," he says.

"I will insist on greater activity in the fire department and on the part of all departmental inspectors and heads. Measures have been taken for the last six months to guard against just such an occurrence in Boston.

"Five men have recently been added to the building inspector's force, and, under orders from the Mayor's office, attaches of other departments have also been required to note conditions in all buildings and report to heads of their departments and district fire chiefs when even a trivial transgression of the building laws was being made.

"To-day there is a rehearing before the Legislature on the fire hazard bill, which ought to pass. This bill would prevent holocausts. It calls for fireproof buildings and compels buildings to be at least five feet apart, thus preventing easy spread of the flames.

"Look at conditions in Dorchester. In case of a big fire, Dorchester with her single, double and blocks of three-flat wooden houses, would be burned up like so much tinder, and with her tremendous population, there would be every danger of terrible sacrifice of life. The fire department has been receiving many reports of building law violations."

HUNT MISSING GRINNELL GEMS

The police of Boston aided by the private detectives of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the police of other cities are searching for a green morocco bag containing four pieces of valuable jewelry lost by or stolen from Mrs. Francis B. Grinnell of Brookline. Mrs. Grinnell lives with her husband, a Harvard medical student, at No. 447 Washington street, Brookline. The bag disappeared somewhere between the New Bedford railroad station and the Grinnell home in Brookline, yesterday afternoon, while the couple were returning to their home after visiting Mrs. Grinnell's family.

At a late hour last night Mrs. Grinnell was unable to give a list of the contents of the bag to the police.

The list, as enumerated by Mrs. Grinnell to-day, is as follows: Four pieces of jewelry, consisting of two rings and two bellrooms; several calling cards, plain linen handkerchief, one $1 bill, some small change, powder case and mirror. The bag has silver trimmings and a leather lock.

"I am sure that I had the bag when we boarded the train in New Bedford Sunday afternoon," said Mrs. Grinnell.

"When we arrived home I immediately noticed my loss, and we searched our carriage which carried us from the Back Bay station to our home. The bag could not be found. It is my belief that I left the bag on the train or was the victim of a thief while on the way to Boston. I may have dropped the bag at the Back Bay station, but this is not probable."

INDIANS CALL ON TAFT.

JUNKET HIT BY STORM AT SEA

WASHINGTON, March 27.—A ship wreck off Cape Hatteras just Friday in a battle against one of the worst "northers" of the season, threatened the Congressional junket of more than a score of Senators and Representatives and their wives returning on the steamship Celon of the Panama steamship line from an inspection of the Panama Canal. Members of the party told their experiences to-day.

Senator Bradley of Kentucky was crossed to the deck by the impact of a terrific wave and narrowly escaped being swamped overboard with a mass of wreckage from the ship's deck. He was badly bruised, but not seriously injured. Representatives Langley of Kentucky and Mondell of Wyoming missed certain death by a narrow margin. They were almost washed overboard.

In the party were: Senator Bradley of Kentucky, Senator Warren of Wyoming, Representative Needham and Kahn of California, Martin and Taylor of Colorado, Steenerson of Minnesota, Langley, Thomas and Rouse of Kentucky, Hartland of Missouri, Burke and Martin of South Dakota, Gudger of North Carolina, Howland of Ohio, McGuire of Oklahoma, Smith of Michigan, Morrison of Indiana and Mondell of Wyoming. Nearly all of the Congressmen were accompanied by their wives and many of them by other members of their families.

ROBIN SENTENCE DELAYED.

NEW YORK, March 27.—In order that he may give further testimony as to the skyrocket transactions that resulted in the suspension of the Carnegie Trust Company, the sentence of Joseph G. Robin convicted of the theft of funds from the Washington Savings Bank, to-day was deferred until April 27.

CHURCHILL SEES COURTS AT WORK

Winston Churchill of Cornish, N. H., ex-member of the New Hampshire Legislature and author of "Coniston" and other famous novels, was in Boston Municipal Court to-day, getting local color for a courtroom scene which is to figure in his next book. The book will not be about Boston direct by, however.

Mr. Churchill was ushered into the first session and was presented to Chief Justice Bolster, who invited the novelist to a seat behind the Judge's bench. Mr. Churchill watched the disposition of a batch of Monday morning cases.

Then he went into the second session, where Judge Wentworth was presiding at the woman's cases.

"I am getting material for a court scene," said Mr. Churchill, "which is to form part of my next novel. The book will not be about Boston, however. I wish to observe at close range the procedure in a large city police court, so I came to Boston."

REVENUE CUTTER SAVES SCHOONER

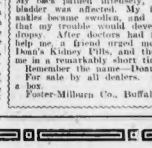
ROCKLAND, Me., March 27.—The revenue cutter Androscoggin brought here in tow the British schooner Tay, bound from St. John, N. B., for Boston, with a cargo of lumber. The cutter rescued the schooner from the ledges on Isle au Haute, at the lower entrance of Penobscot Bay. Having pounded seven hours on the rocks, the schooner was badly damaged. Her rudder and steering gear were gone, she was leaking badly and part of her deck load was washed away.

CHILD IS KILLED BY GOELET AUTOMOBILE

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., March 27.—Robert Goelet of the millionaire family of that name, driving through Chester in his automobile, with a chauffeur, ran down little Marie Potter, who whisked in front of the machine. As the little girl, who was only three years of age, was breathing her last Mr. Goelet lifted her into the automobile and rushed her to her parents' home, where she died. After hearing the testimony of eyewitnesses the coroner exonerated Mr. Goelet.

Cheerful Words for Suffering Women

No woman can be healthy with sick kidneys. They are always the true cause of bearing-down pains, backaches, dizziness, nervousness, etc. Keep the kidneys well and health is sustained. There is no kidney remedy recommended like Doan's Kidney Pills.



Mrs. J. A. Weldon, 56 High St., Woburn, Mass., says: "My health was all run down, and I did not think there was any cure for me. My back pained, kidneys pained, my bladder was affected. My feet and ankles became swollen, and I feared that my trouble would develop into dropsy. After doctors had failed to help me I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me in a remarkably short time." Remember the name—Doan's.

JOHN SHEPARD HALE AND HEARTY AT 77

John Shepard, head of the Shepard Norwell Company, is seventy-seven years old. Vigorous in health and vibrant with good cheer, the merchant quietly observed the seventy-seventh anniversary of his birth at Summerville, S. C. Messages of good wishes from relatives, friends and business associates were sent southward, all bearing evidence of the high regard and esteem in which Mr. Shepard is held. Mr. Shepard, with Mrs. Shepard, has passed the last few weeks in the South, at the Pine Forest Inn, Summerville, S. C. Both passed the greater part of the day receiving the congratulations of their many friends at the Winter resort and replying to the many messages received.

COUNTRY BOYS LARGER THAN THOSE FROM CITY

ITHACA, March 27.—Statistics compiled by the departments of history and political science at Cornell University show that the country-bred student has a slight superiority in physique over the city-bred boy. The measurements were taken of 1712 students who entered in the classes of 1908 and 1909. Of these 991 were from the country and 721 from cities. For the purpose of the computation places with a population of 25,000 and over were considered cities. The result shows the rural students were half an inch taller, three and a half pounds heavier and had a greater chest expansion.

HAVEN C. PERHAM OF LOWELL IS DEAD

LOWELL, March 27.—Haven C. Perham, treasurer of the Kitson and the Lowell machine shops and one of the best known textile machine manufacturers in America, died today of pneumonia. At his home on Wamsutta street, Mr. Perham had been ill a week. He was fifty-nine years old and leaves a widow and one son. The shops with which Mr. Perham was connected are two of the largest plants of the kind in Lowell.

FIELD STORE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 27.—A deal involving the purchase of the New York and Criterion Theatre properties running from Forty-fourth to Forty-fifth streets on Broadway, has been consummated by Marshall Field & Co., the Chicago department store owners. The transaction involves an investment of more than $3,500,000.

Marshall Field & Co. bought the property. It is understood, with the idea of putting up an immense department store, thus establishing the first great enterprise of the kind in the Longacre district.

The New York Theatre has been under lease for ten years by Klaw & Erlanger. The Criterion Theatre is leased by Charles Frohman and his interest in it expires within a year.

In theatrical circles the news that Marshall Field & Co. would tear down the theatres and erect a department store caused an immense sensation. The New York Theatre has been a big moneymaker for Klaw & Erlanger, and they have been anxious to get rid of their lease. The Criterion Theatre property, too, has been a solid investment.

In the last five years there have been many rumors concerning the sale of the New York theatre property. At one time it was given out that the theatre would be leveled down and another erected in its place. Both theatres were built by Oscar Hammerstein.

The AMERICAN was informed to-day that Marshall Field & Company propose to erect a ten-story structure on the site of the two theatres. To make room for the store the Chicago company needs considerable property adjoining the theatres and title has been acquired secretly.

In connection with the purchase of the theatre property it became known that the Field Company have obtained a five-year lease of the two upper floors of an eight-story loft building under course of construction at Broome and Lewis streets. The Field Company will devote the thirteen square feet of space for manufacturing purposes.

As Quickly As Water Dissolves Sugar

About The Time It Takes For A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet To Work On The Food And Bring Relief.

TRIAL PACKAGE SENT FREE.

There is no long wait between the time you take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and the feeling of relief it will bring to an overloaded stomach. It goes busy in a jiffy and quickly sets things to rights in that tired and discordered stomach. It goes right at the work of digesting the food it finds lodged there and in no time at all has things on the move—the gases cease forming, the breath is sweetened, the coating on the tongue disappears and you are no longer conscious that you even have a stomach.

That is one of the chief recommendations for Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets—that they do not take forever to accomplish the purpose for which you need them. It is just as if you put an extra stomach or two to work when yours needed help. You can't continually overload your stomach and expect it to always smile. It is going to get rebellious and sulky after awhile and refuse to go on being driven to do double work. You must rest it occasionally—not by starving and thereby weakening yourself physically—but by using a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to do the work of digesting your food.

These tablets contain all the active elements of the natural stomach juices and will alone and unaided digest food just the same as the gastric juices. And nothing could be more harmless than these tablets. They do not affect the system in any way—do not cure any ailment except as they digest food. Use them freely.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists everywhere. Price, 50 cents per box. A trial package will be sent if you will write F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

ROXBURY SINGER WHO IS BRIDE OF MISSOURI MAN

MRS. CRAWFORD L. HIGGINSON.

MISS GLASIER OF ROXBURY BRIDE

Miss Charlotte Glasier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Glasier of Bainbridge street, Roxbury, it was announced today, was married yesterday in New York to Crawford Loring Higginson, son of Colonel Thomas Higginson, of Missouri financier. The engagement was announced but a few weeks ago and a wedding was expected some time in June. Mr. and Mrs. Higginson will motor through the West on their honeymoon, after which they will live in New York.

Mrs. Higginson has a beautiful mezzo soprano voice. She is well known socially and has sung with success at many private entertainments. Her education was finished at the private school of the Misses Gilman on Commonwealth avenue.

PLAN PAGEANT FOR HARVARD INSTRUCTOR

Eugene Armand Dopieuse, the French architect, professor of architectural design at Harvard, will be greeted on his arrival at Cambridge in April with a pageant in the Harvard Union in his honor by past and present students of the department of architecture. The pageant will represent a visit of King Edward VI and his court to the University of Cambridge, where an entertainment, entitled "A Masque of Prophecy," depicting the future of the art of architecture, will be given.

THIEVES STEAL EGGS AND HENS

Mrs. F. H. C. Gilchrist, living on the Robert Gould Shaw estate in West Roxbury, is mourning the loss of twenty-five hens which she believes were stolen. Mrs. Gilchrist says she has for some time been the victim of petty thieves and that the loss of her hens deprived her of a means of obtaining a livelihood.

BACON FREE TO MARRY IN LENT

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Cardinal Gibbons has granted a special dispensation for the marriage of Miss Cecilia May and Robert L. Bacon to take place during Lent despite the fortunes of diplomacy make such an unusual event desirable.

Colonel and Mrs. Henry H. May of this city, is a Roman Catholic and much averse to a lenten marriage, but will acquiesce in case Mr. and Mrs. Bacon find it impossible to return later in the month.

BANKER SHOT AFTER SAFE IS PLUNDERED

NEW YORK, March 27.—Julius Berosky, a private banker, was found shot in his office at No. 20 Avenue B to-day and died before a doctor could reach him. The police after an investigation which showed that about $1,000 was missing from the office strong box, decided that the banker had been murdered.

PROF. RHODES SCORES BUTLER

In the legislative fight that has been on or some weeks over the proposal to erect a statue to the memory of General Benjamin F. Butler in the State House rotunda another side has been brought out about the dead man's history.

A story that reflects on his honesty and ability is related by James Ford Rhodes, the Boston historian, in an interview with the New York Times. He declares that Butler went to the war worth $150,000 and came out worth $3,000,000.

"Butler was an incompetent general," said Mr. Rhodes. "In addition to that he took his position of major-general to further his own ends, and used his command for the illicit gain of money. When he assumed command of New Orleans in 1862 he was worth, according to Biographer Parton, $150,000. In 1866 one of his friends said that he had three million. No statue can suppress this evidence.

"Little Military Ability."

"There were a good many generals appointed at the beginning of the Civil War," Mr. Rhodes continued, "who were thought to have great military ability, but who in reality had very little. Butler was one of those. As commander of the Army of the James at the commencement of Grant's Wilderness campaign in May, 1864, he had a great opportunity. He utterly failed. Occupying City Point and Bermuda without opposition, it was in the chances that a skilled general might have captured Petersburg or Richmond. Butler was neither and he dallied, while Beauregard gathered forces to come to the defence of the two cities.

"On August 28, Colonel Andrew J. Butler, a brother of the general arrived in New Orleans on the sole purpose of making money, as Denison wrote. In a letter of October 10, he says he made this: 'I governed officers, citizens and rebels generally believed that Colonel Butler was the partner or agent of the general. He also wrote that the colonel had made more than $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 since the capture of the city.

"Butler's brother carried on a large trade of salt for cotton, and this traffic protected by General Butler's pass, it is was immensely profitable.

"Butler's career can never be absolutely proved that Butler shared the profits of his brother in New Orleans and his brother-in-law in Virginia, but in forming a historical judgment of him, one must take into account the reputation he bore before he became a military commander."

His Moral Fibre Doubted.

"His reputation at the bar before the war broke out was that of an unscrupulous practitioner. His professional brethren had no reason to doubt his ability, but every reason to doubt his moral fibre. Governor Andrews said of him that his whole course of proceedings seemed to have been designed and adapted simply to afford means to persons of bad character to make money unscrupulously.

"Common experience of affairs teaches us that when a man like Butler is put in a position where he sees a large amount of money being handled, and has a chance to get some of it without being found out, he is pretty certain to embrace the opportunity. It has been said, as Benjamin F. Butler went to New Orleans in 1862 with but $7,000 and in 1866 he was possessed a fortune of $3,000,000.

"The weight of circumstantial evidence implies that Butler's course in money matters during the Civil War was that is expected of men placed in positions of trust. Only a few days ago I think that he was making money out of his country's life struggle."

OPEN FOURTH WEEK OF SEDERQUIST TRIAL

When the fourth week of the trial of Sederquist, Barry & Co., the brokers accused of fraud, opened in the Superior Criminal Court today, Gardner K. Hudson, a lawyer of Fitchburg, resumed the stand. On cross-examination by one defendants' attorney he testified he paid the firm $1,250 for carrying 100 shares each of Pennsylvania and New York, New Haven & Hartford, an amount that he increasing the amount to $2,250. For this amount he said he was credited in a statement by the firm that his $2,250 represented stock for a loan of $22,000. James A. Brownell of No. 22 First street, Tannton, testified that he mailed the firm certificate for ten shares of the Consolidated Mining Company's stock on May 3, but never received the stock or the money.

JOHN F. GAYNOR HAS LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA

NEW YORK, March 27.—John E. Gaynor, just released from the Federal Prison at Atlanta, Ga., where he and his partner, Benjamin F. Greene, were sent for fraud, estimated at $2,000,000 in the contract for the Savannah harbor improvements, arrived here a wreck of his former self. He had to lean on his son, John Gaynor, Jr., when he posed for the newspaper photographers. "I am an ill man. I've got locomotor ataxia," he said.

ASYLUM HEADS ARE ACCUSED

ances the minds of those in asylums who never were insane. Dr. Lane, our well-known alienist, states that one-third of the patients in our asylums are not insane.

"(2) Every attendant found maltreating his patients should be brought into court, fined and given a long stretch in prison.

"(3) The superintendent physician should be heavily fined for neglecting to report any case of assault and battery under his jurisdiction. Perhaps it would not be a bad idea to suggest to the shifty politicians of organized labor, before election, to demand that members of the working class be given a majority representation on the boards of trustees of our insane hospitals and penal institutions. The present members are a disgrace to our Commonwealth. I believe judges, clergymen and politicians know that our public charges are starved and beaten, and they remain silent, but if they do not, God knows that Attorney Long and the writer have produced enough evidence in the past three years against attendants and officials of our public institutions to necessitate an addition to the Charlestown "chamber of horrors," presided over by Warden Bridges.

Turn on the Searchlight.

"Dr. Briggs should demand a thorough investigation, and if I know Governor Foss (and I think I do), he will turn the searchlight on every public institution in the state (when provided with suitable evidence).

"One of the charges made by M. F. O'Leary, a former inmate of Danvers Insane Asylum, was that the rotation of help, the frequent dismissals, hiring of new attendants regardless of past qualifications, was because the employment office patronized was conducted by the sister of an asylum official.

"The more help, the more fees, don't you think? That is the comment of Mr. O'Leary.

"This is born out in a statement given in confidence by a former attendant in the Westboro asylum, who has written a record of how he was employed to go to Westboro and paid a fee of $5 was deducted from his next month's wages 'for the employment bureau.'

"Here is his story:

"In the Fall of 1907 I was desirous of getting into the Insane Hospital at Westboro. In order to do so I went to an employment office in Boston and met Mr. Atchison, the superior, who was in town to hire attendants.

"He asked me if I ever had any experience in institutions, and in our conversation he told me that he would rather have green or inexperienced men.

"I went to work the next morning in Ward 8, or what is called there the 'dope ward.'

"I had not been there fifteen minutes before I saw a patient, named Wheeler, brutally pounded by an attendant. This Wheeler had both hands locked in a cuff behind and was helpless.

"Some of the men hired for attendants were confirmed drunkards, others addicted to the use of opiates, and some were more than human beings. Many of the patients are very totally unfit to be placed in charge of helpless human beings.

Cruelty at Medfield.

Patients at the Medfield Insane Hospital, the largest institution of the kind in the Commonwealth, are thrown into cells of water and forcibly held there for twenty minutes and sometimes a half an hour when they refused to do their own chamber work. It is asserted by a former attendant at the hospital.

The man who makes this charge and many others is James O'Rourke of 27 May place, South End, who resigned as attendant in the hospital because he would not remain and witness the brutalities practiced there.

Mr. O'Rourke was employed at the hospital from July to October, 1908. He declares that he has seen patients thrown down and beaten because they asked for a second helping of food.

"I finally wrote out my resignation," said Mr. O'Rourke, "because I could not stay there and see patients beaten. Why, they would attempt to strike a doctor like a pugilist. I have been like go in and beat patients just for the fun and the exercise.

L. Herbert Nolt of No. 280 Essex street, Lynn, a friend of the Lawson family, said to-day, concerning the autopsy on the body of George Lawson of Lynn, who died suddenly at the insane hospital at Westboro:

"I am firmly convinced that Dr. Evans found evidence of violence on the body of George Lawson. He did not say that to me, however, would be say anything. But there are other ways of ascertaining things. I believe from the way the doctor looked he did discover evidences of violence."

It was present at the autopsy, but not in the immediate room, where the body lay, when the doctor came out to Dr. Evans about it and he smiled. His reply was: "I can say anything yet; don't ask me now."

Blames Hospital Head.

"Then I talked to Dr. Davis, who said there was an agreement between the doctors not to say anything about the matter. I believe, and there is no one can convince me to the contrary, that Lawson met his death through violence. I do not blame the doctors at the Westboro hospital for it, but I do blame the head of the institution.

"The doctors can't be on duty all the time. Those I met seemed to be nice fellows.

"Mr. Lawson told me that she saw a man being beaten by the guards at the hospital when she visited her husband on February 25, and that one of the guards said to the patient: 'There, d— you, I guess you will sweep now.' She said the guard who was with her did say the man was being beaten. The guard explained they wanted to make the patient sweep the floor; that the patient wouldn't and was beaten.

Marks on Body.

"On February 28 I went up to Westboro and saw the boy (Lawson). At tabt time I saw black and blue marks all over his legs from knee to ankle. Mrs. Lawson and the boy's brother, Horace, visited the hospital on March 14, and when she came home, said to me: 'They are killing my poor husband.' I went to Martin Quinn, who by a close personal friend of mine, to know if he would not have the boy removed to Danvers. I told him who Mrs. Lawson had said. Representative Quinn asked me to leave the matter entirely in his hands, that he thought he could do it up all right at the State House. Later I told him not to bother with it because Lawson were dying.

"Mr. Quinn and Horace Lawson were instrumental in having the autopsy performed.

"Today Mr. Quinn asked me to be present at a hearing at the State House on Monday. Horace Lawson will also be present. I imagine this will be a hearing on Mr. Quinn's bill."

MISTOOK LAND FOR ICEBERG; WRECKED

LOUISBURG, C. B., March 27.—Barricades of ice formed high on the shore, which he took to be floating icebergs, was the cause of the loss of the Reid Newfoundland Company's steamer Bruce, which struck a submerged rock near Port Novo, near Sentinel, Friday, according to a statement made by Captain Richard Drake of the vessel. He denies that the crew were slow in getting the boats overboard to take off passengers.

The Sirolin Sentinel

"Fighting The Great White Plague"

BOSTON, MONDAY, MARCH 27, 1911.

AMERICA'S LATEST VISITOR

A Remedy from Switzerland Sent to Aid in the War on Consumption.

If you are one of the nine out of ten men, women and children in the United States who are subject to sudden colds, with the attendant ills of a troublesome cough, bronchitis or other forms of throat and lung affections, which, when neglected, lead on to the dreaded scourge of American life,—pneumonia and consumption—the coming of "Sirolin" to this country is of vital importance to you and to your family.

At your nearest drug store you can avail yourself of the professional judgment of such eminent foreign specialists as Drs. Liebreich, Hohn, Stekel, Hugo Tausig, Goldmann, Winternitz, Marcus, Redtenbacher, Kaplansky, and others, who have tested, adopted and recommended throughout Europe the famous Swiss prescription Sirolin—the latest triumph of medical research, for the treatment in all stages of all throat and lung troubles.

With Sirolin at hand these common and dangerous attacks can be promptly controlled and the system fortified against recurrence without risking the use of harmful drugs—or impairing the digestive functions. As a preventive and safeguard Sirolin is worth its weight in gold in the family, for children and adults—and is absolutely without trace of narcotic drugs.

NEW CHARGES IN MILK WAR

There will be a big fight Wednesday at the State House when the hearing is given on the amendments of the Saunders law by which the railroads have made heavy advances in the cost of carrying milk to Boston.

It actually cost more—about 4 cents—the can—to ship milk from within the 40 mile radius on the Boston & Maine than it does or carry it over the same road from Sherbrooke, Canada—338 cents the can.

The farmers claim that the railways have deliberately adopted this policy to kill the Saunders law, which was passed to give them an equal rate with the big milk contractors. They claim the plan of the contractors had a railroad rate. Now that they have to pay as much as the farmer they have reduced the price they pay for milk to the producer.

Dairymen Driven Out.

The territory from which Boston ought to get its best and purest milk is being driven out of the dairy business. Instead of getting milk, four or five hours from the cow to the table, the bulk of the supply is coming from border towns and much from Canada. This milk is often two days old.

The farmers declare the railroads are discriminating against nearby producers and, that the paid officials of the milk brokers' union—the Co-operative Milk Producers' Company—which managed the milk strike of last year, are working hand in glove with the railways and big milk contractors to have the Saunders law repealed.

Talk of Co-operative Plant.

A possibility of this alleged betrayal of the milk makers is a threat to form a new organization of the dairy farmers.

Again there is talk of opening a great co-operative milk-selling plant in Boston—for which Governor W. Lawson once agreed to furnish the funds. Milk within the forty-mile zone is now bringing the farmers only 2½ cents a can of 8½ quarts—about two-thirds of its actual cost to them on the basis of feed alone—their labor as usual being thrown in for nothing. They say they are getting tired of supplying milk to Boston on these terms.

THOMAS B. REED'S AUNT DEAD AT 97

PORTLAND, Me., March 27.—Lydia Reed Sterling, ninety-eight, the, favorite aunt of former Speaker Thomas B. Reed, and Portland's oldest woman, is dead at her home at Peak's Island. She died in the house where the former Speaker's father was born and which is 125 years old. She was a native of Peak's Island, and had lived there all her life. She was one of the young girls to shake hands with Lafayette when he was in Portland in 1825. It was one of the disappointments of her life that Mr. Reed was not nominated for the Presidency.

3,500 WOMEN AT ANNUAL RETREAT

The annual retreat conducted at the Church of the Immaculate Conception By Fathers of that church and of Boston College was attended at its opening services by 3,500 women. To-day the Rev. Fr. Gasson celebrated mass at 6:30 a. m. and to-night at 7:30 the exercises of the retreat were to be continued. This program, with devotional services in the afternoon, will be followed every day this week, except Saturday, which is set apart for confessional.

UNVEIL STATUE GIFT OF TEACHER

A statue of Joan of Arc, purchased with funds left by Laura J. Gerry, for fifty-two years a teacher in the schools of South Boston, was unveiled to-day in the Capen School at East Sixth and I streets, South Boston. The statue is a copy of the original by the French sculptor, Chapu, which stands in the gallery of the Luxemburg.

Turning Earth for Brookline Church.

WORK ON NEW CHURCH BEGUN

In the presence of over two hundred and fifty parishioners of St. Aidan's Catholic Church, Brookline, Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger, the rector, today turned the first shovelful of earth which broke the ground for the erection of a new edifice. Among those present were twenty-five members of the building committee and the ladies' committee. Benediction was offered by the Rev. Henry Sargent. The church will be centrally located at the corner of Freeman and Pleasant streets in the most exclusive section of Brookline.

The new church will cost about $38,000. Of this amount nearly $30,000 has been raised in six months. The high altar has been donated by the lovers of the parish. The marble and trimmings for this altar will be imported from Italy and will cost $2,000. The beautiful stained glass windows have also been donated.

Many of those present followed Father Coppinger in the turning of the earth. After the ceremony Father Coppinger thanked all his parishioners for their hearty assistance.

The new district was formed by Archbishop O'Connell but a few months ago. Rapid strides have been made by those interested in the parish and it will be but a short time before they will see a beautiful parish church erected.

SERVANTS BENEFIT BY BRADSTREET WILL

Lizzie McKinley and Michael J. Reardon, servants of the late Charlotte Augusta Bradstreet of No. 86 Commonwealth avenue, are made beneficiaries to the extent of $35,000 in her will. A fund of $25,000 has been left for the benefit of the surfmen and keepers of the United States life saving stations between Wood End and Manomoy. Two trust funds of $75,000 each have been left to her sons, Samuel Bradstreet of Marshfield and Augustus Peirce Bradstreet of No. 1795 Beacon street, Boston. Charles F. Stanwood, a friend, gets $12,000, the Rev. James De Normandie, D. D., receives $2,000, and the residue of the property is left to the New England Hospital for Women and Children.

BRIDE HAS PHYSICIAN ARRESTED AS BIGAMIST

BALTIMORE, March 27.—Dr. A. Pleasant Bush, thirty, enlisted in a police station here when his bride of a month, Mrs. Lillian Akers Bush of this city, charged him with having three wives living, from only one of whom he has been divorced, and with being engaged to marry a young woman in Piney, W. Va. Mrs. Bush said she was deserted fifteen days after her marriage. When he revived Dr. Bush denied the charges, but said he was a widower when he married Mrs. Akers. In default of bail he was committed for trial.

ASPHALT WORKERS DEMAND INCREASE

Sixty cents an hour for mechanics and forty-five cents for helpers is the demand prepared for presentation to the employers to-day by the Artificial Stone, Asphalt and Cement Workers' Union, to take effect on June 1 of this year. The existing rates are fifty cents for mechanics and thirty-seven cents for helpers. The new rates were unanimously approved at a meeting of the union yesterday.

WELLESLEY HAS ONE ELECTION CONTEST

The town election in Wellesley, to-day, is expected to be one of the quietest in the history of the town as all of last year's officers are running for office again this year, and the only one to be opposed is Town Clerk Fred Kingsbury. His opponent is John Ryan, who defeated him for the nomination in the joint caucus held two weeks ago.

You see the AMERICAN everywhere—in the homes, clubs, restaurants, hotels, cars and boats.

LAW IS OFF ON PARK SPOONERS

Mr. D. Cupid and Mr. George L. Rogers, new secretary of the Metropolitan Park Commission, are going to be nice little pals together this Spring and Summer and early Fall.

Which means that there will be spooning in the parks under Secretary Rogers's jurisdiction without unwarranted interference by the park police.

No sooner did Cupid learn of the appointment of Mr. Rogers than he had a heart to heart talk with him. He emerged from the conference with a happy smile, but refused to talk for publication, referring inquirers to the new secretary.

"I know no law," says Mr. Rogers, "that prohibits spooning, mushing or thrilling. If young women walk in the parks, behave themselves and mind their own business I don't think there is much danger of their being insulted.

"Of course nothing improper will be allowed, but I see no reason why Cupid should not prevail in the parks as well as in the home or anywhere.

"If couples want to spoon in the parks on Summer nights and desire to sit and hold hands and say pretty things to each other, it is all right if they do not make too much noise about it.

"Let the young people have a harmless good time. That is what the parks are for. I see no reason of trying to stretch the laws of the parks, which I intend to have enforced strictly into making things seem wrong which are really not so."

BREAKS SPEED LAW TO SAVE A CHILD

Dr. Wyman Whittemore declared to-day that Marion Kennedy, the fourteen-year-old Vineyard Haven girl, to save whose life he raced in the dead of the night from Boston to Vineyard Haven, is practically out of danger.

Dr. Whittemore was notified at 11 o'clock last Wednesday evening that the little girl was dying and that only by an immediate operation. He entered his automobile instantly, and a few minutes later was traveling at full speed through the Shirley-South Shore roads, bound for Woods Hole.

Mattresses

Remember! You are buying for years to come! It will be poor economy to "save" a dollar or two on the mattresses now, only to wonder after a while why they were not so quietly and good and soggy. Be on the safe side! Buy our guaranteed mattresses! They will last your lifetime! Here are some of our famous brands

Red Cross "Silk Floss" Mattress

A superbe bed cushion, heretofore impossible. Filled with the most remarkable sleep creation and tongue depressor that ever was produced—the soft, buoyant, dry silk from the Kapoc tree, found in far-away India and Java. Its chief characteristics are wonderful elasticity and sanitary cleanliness.

We import it direct, in all its fresh, wholesome purity, and in our model workshops fashion it into the Red Cross "Silk Floss" Mattress—as perfect as anyone can make at any price—guaranteed not to lump or flatten.

The Red Cross "Silk Floss" Mattress will not retain perspiration, will not harbor disease germs (so hygienic and so odorless), and cannot be harmed by long, hard use. It is twice as light as cotton, is easily turned each day, and quickly carried to the window for sun and air. Air circulates freely through it, aided by our self-ventilating eyelets placed in each side.

All in all, it insures luxurious hygienic comfort beyond compare!

Red Cross "Downy Dixie" Mattress

Here is a superbe mattress, formed of elastic layers of highest grade, long fiber felted cotton from the happy Southland. Equal in every way or no higher priced cotton mattresses. Made in the same clean, bright workshops, under the same sanitary conditions. Soft, warm and comfortable. Self-ventilating eyelets in each side keep it dry.

Red Cross "Land O'Dreams" Mattress

An inexpensive, but soft, serviceable mattress of indestructible fiber, enclosed in a warm blanket of pure, clean cotton. Handsomely covered with durable ticking, and neatly tufted. Sanitary and easily aired. No better mattress can be bought for use where price is the first consideration.

Overcome those ruinous mattresses in the store of a Red Cross dealer. If you don't know who sells them, write to us and we'll tell you. Send for interesting folder

WAR ON INCOME TAX CONTINUED

Lobbyists for the special interests continued to-day their work at the State House for the defeat of the income tax. Every lobbyist of any account is at work to kill the measure. The Committee on Federal Relations, which has the matter in charge, votes on it next Wednesday.

Realizing that the report of the committee will be a worth several votes in the two branches, one way or another, the lobbyists are exerting every effort to line up Senator John H. Hunt of Worcester and Representative James A. Hart of Dorchester against the measure. Hunt is a Democrat. Hart is a Republican. He called himself a "progressive Republican" in last Fall's campaign.

Senator Charles H. Brown of Medford has joined hands with the lobbyists in working on Representative Hart. Brown was House chairman of Federal Relations last year. He led the fight against the income tax in the lower House. Brown is showing Hart a lot of alleged statistic tending to show what an awful thing it would be for Massachusetts men to be required to pay a just tax to the Federal government.

The delay of the Committee on Federal Relations in voting on the measure is affording the lobbyists additional time for lining up members of the Senate and House against the measure. The usual arguments are being employed.

Senator Hunt says that he will probably "reserve a right to dissent" from the committee vote. Asked which way he will dissent, he said he doesn't know. If Hart votes against the measure, the committee will be tied, and Hunt will have to vote one way or the other.

BARTENDERS AND WAITERS TO MEET

Plans are complete for the biennial convention of the bartenders, cooks, waiters, waitresses and restaurant employes scheduled for Faneuil Hall from May 8 to 13. The women delegates will be taken on an automobile tour of the city under the supervision of the Boston Women's Auxiliary. On the same evening all of the 500 delegates will attend a theatre party.

There will be a down the harbor excursion on Wednesday, followed by a banquet in Faneuil Hall the same evening, and on Friday night the visiting delegates and Boston unionists will be tendered a reception by the Boston Arctic Eagles. The convention will be held in Faneuil Hall, and the gallery will be open to the public during the session.

The EVENING AMERICAN guarantees to advertisers the largest circulation by far of any daily newspaper in Boston and over 200,000 more than the next highest evening paper, and over 100,000 more than all the other Boston evening papers combined. Circulation books open to all.

U. S. TROOPS IN BORDER FIGHT

EL PASO, March 27.—A detachment of United States soldiers and insurrecto scouts patrolled a battle fifty miles west of Del Rio, Texas, late yesterday, according to advices received here to-day.

The civilians were attempting to smuggle arms across the border when they were surprised by the United States troops. When commanded to surrender three refused and began firing on the American soldiers. The volley was returned and two of the insurrecto friends were killed. The rest fled, abandoning the munitions of war. Three thousand rounds of ammunition and 100 rifles were captured.

Encouraged by the weakness of the Diaz government and dissatisfaction with the new cabinet, the revolt in Mexico is spreading rapidly. More activity is manifest now in Coahuila than in Chihuahua. Two rebels have taken San Sachas, thirty miles south of Del Rio, when its immense stores. Thirty federals are reported killed in the battle.

JUNIORS RAISED $200.

Rabbi Schindler, who accepted the pulpit of Temple Israel recently in the absence of Rabbi Fleischer, who is in New York, announced that $200 was raised for the Summer outing Fund of the Council of Jewish Juniors by the annual entertainment.

BIG CROWD AT FLOWER SHOW

The third day of the flower show at Mechanics Building commencing with the opening of the doors this morning, was a repetition of yesterday and Saturday as to quantities, with the floor space for the crowds and exhibitions were. The air is scented with the perfume of thousands of flowers from all parts of the world, and the glowing eye is while the exhibits are displayed is pleasing.

The hall is tastefully and profusely decorated with evergreens and lanier. A plant, known as the Foss Cotton, named in honor of Governor Foss, and variegated in color, has a place of honor near the north entrance.

The exhibits of high-priced orchids attract much attention. Mrs. J. A. Hemsley of Boston has an authority on orchids, was again a visitor today and showed unusual interest in one specimen which is valued at $100.

The carnation and sweet exhibits are popular and the display is one of the best in exhibition and needs a square foot of floor is visible. Between the aisles of flowers of the plants grown has been spread, giving the place the appearance of a miniature garden. The fruit exhibit is also good, gardens attract considerable attention.

The rose and azalea exhibits are the best ever seen in Boston.

MAYOR GIVES UP FOSS COAT

City Hall made quiet to the State House today, when Mayor Fitzgerald delivered the goods to Governor Foss. The garment in question was the Foss coat, or robe from which the Mayor removed from an interview at Mechanics Building Saturday night while the Governor was taking in the Flower Show.

With the return of the executive to-day, went along the robe from the Mayor, stepping now be supposed to rule the roost. The Mayor said he had got the coat off in time to get it to Malden, and announced that he didn't fit him. Governor Foss, the Governor said he was the big and he could see there was no sign of the missing garment.

RED SOX ARE TOURING THEIR WAY HOMEWARD

By MERTON E. BURKE.

American Correspondent with Red Sox on "Coast-to-Coast" Tour.

MERTON E. BURKE.

LOS ANGELES, March 27.—The Boston Red Sox have made their final conquests in California. The Regulars and the Colts have played their last conquest of the great game in Pacific coast set. The manager and many impressionable have played their final hands in the national game of hors.

John I. Taylor hopefuls are on their way, the Regulars leaving here last night on the 10:15 Southern Pacific train for Yuma, where Manger Donovan will line up his boys against the desertrats to-day, while Hugh McBreen, with Carrigan's colts in tow, left Oakland at 9 o'clock, and will spring his players on Reno's divorce colony.

To-morrow the Regulars play at El Paso. It was expected that the squad would arrive in time to cross the border and strike out the insurrectos, but Mutt and Jeff seem to have attended to that and any way, trains wont permit much of a trip.

Affairs in the Regulars camp seem to have settled down to dull calm. Manager Donovan knows what he will do just as well now as he will in the world's series. The fates of the recruits are for the most part settled.

The homeward bound games are cut and dried affairs, nothing to be won out of pitchers a chance to show what they have left in the locker with the exception of Charlie Hall have trimmed well. Bartley Hoopers slight attack of chancre loose, Charles Patrick Ruth's appendix affair, Dutch Leis' game wing, and Bradley's injured knee, these with the exception of chills are usual at end of training. Until Purtell is in shape Janvrin will be the mound on the home trip.

For the Regulars, "Nat Coll" ring the bell. Let them publish their own names down through the land that they are champs. I'm off for Carrigan's camp and will intercept that outfit at Salt Lake City.

Somebody has certainly got to take them a little luck.

Ever since the Colts were left to shift for themselves they've been in hot water. Hooper got leg-ton-leg, Yerkes got into his ankle, Engle got charlie horse, Thomey failed to come limbering, Hunt was out of the game a couple of days, Scoringer is just back at third base, Cullin as a good pitcher has been forced to play short, other pitchers have failed to show class and all told they were in a mess of trouble.

Off With Carrigan.

Treasurer McBreen has taken the wounded squad by the hand, dressed the boys in new uniforms, presented Kaiger and Collins from the Regulars and may win a few games now.

The work of the Colts is a source of deep concern to Manager Donovan as he has practically concluded to keep some half dozen of them.

At present with the Colts are those regulars. Arrelanes, Collins, Karger, Hunt, Carrigan, Thomey and Engle. Collins and Karger are in excellent shape. Hunt and Arrelanes have got to make good to stick.

Carrigan and Engle of course will be held, the latter being sure of a regular job. Thomey looks bad to me. I've counted him out from the first. It is simply up to John I. Taylor.

Thomas and Pierce have been unloaded on Sacramento. Both look like good pitchers, but need development. "Babe" Sheehan will summer at Los Angeles on the Vernon team. Bane is an easy going chap and needs a hard boss. Any thing but will be kept on the hustle. With the regulars are Mahoney, Janvrin, Williams, Killilay and Bedient.

Yesterday's game showed conclusively that Joe Wood will be a star pitcher this season. I never saw such speed. Charlie Smith pitched a creditable game, Killilay showed class. Bedient could not find the plate. Mahoney looked classed in the outfield, is sure a heavy hitter.

Mr. Taylor would do well to watch him instead of sending him to the coast, as hinted.

Off to Mormon City. Weather affectionate.

For Coming Futurities.

Two of the country's best known brood mares, Medina 2:07¾ and Dorcas H. 2:09¾, are to be sent to the court of Bingara, the splendid son of Binger, at Allen farm, Pittsfield. Both of these mares are pacers, and the former is already especially noted as a producer, having been the dam of King Cole, 2:05¾.

SOME YEARS AGO IN ERIED TWO BROTHERS THE ERIELINGS CLAIMED UP A PILE OF BONEY BOXING BEFORE THE OTHER DUKES GOT ON THEIR WIDE TWINS AND LOOKED EXACTLY ALIKE EXCEPT THAT ONE WAS BROKER AND A BETTER FIGHTER THE BIG GUY USED TO WEIGH IN AND THE GOOD BROTHER FIGHT AND WIN THE SUN BROTHER GET A BLACK EYE TRAINING ONE DAY AND WEIGHED IN THAT DAY TO FIGHT THE GOOD BROTHER WITHOUT THE BLACK EYE TRIED TO GET INTO THE RING BUT WAS QUEERED THE GANG TUMBLED.

UP AT THE OLD FRONCES CLUB ON BROADWAY A DEAF AND DUMB GUY FOUGHT BUT ONLY WENT ONE ROUND. HE RUNNED INTO AN UNTAMED RIGHT WITH HIS CHIN AND RIT THE PLANKS THE REFEREE IN ORDER TO LET THE FALLEN GLADIATOR KNOW THE PROGRESS OF THE COUNT KICKED HIM IN THE RIBS EACH TIME HE HOWLED OUT A NEW NUMBER. THE LOSER WAS BOOSTED TO TIMES IN THE SAINT WHEN CARRIE TO HIS CORNER. HE HAD LUMPS ON HIM AS BIG AS POTATOES

FAST TROTTERS UNDER HAMMER

La Bondie, 2:10, one of the new comers to the 2:10 list in 1910, and Emma Offa, 2:14¾, the daughter of Gandetta Wilkes that won the M and M. stake a few seasons ago, are the fastest trotters now signed to the Combination Park sale, next Tuesday. The latter is in foal to Guy Axworthy, 2:08¾.

Carl Stanley, the green trotter that A. H. Merrill is selling at the sale, has shown trials in 2:11½ and looks like a coming good prospect for the 1911 stakes.

There are a lot of fine prospects among the youngsters consigned to the combination Park sale. A good portion of them are descendants of Bingen 2:06¾, with the popular sire Aquilin having the largest number of representatives.

Though it may not be generally known it is a fact that the mighty Billy Maud Miller that Pendergast & Watson have consigned could, up to the time that she met with a temporary injury, pace rings around her half brother, Hermion Regent 2:09½, the futurity winning son of Hermion Miller 2:05¾. She is a last pacing prospect.

If there was ever a game horse it was Mabel, 2:13½, the black son of Alcantara, that raced against Dan Patch a dozen or more years ago. John P. Mills is sending the sale a choice bunch of youngsters by Dalsoni, 2:23¾, son of Bigen 2:06¾, and Orlla, by Mahlon.

George A. Fuller is becoming known as the great American trotter. Last week he was in Indiana; this week he is at Combination Park, and next week will be at Portland, Me. The genial Kentuckian is in a class quite by himself as a livestock auctioneer or as a judge of pretty women.

WHO'S WHO WITH THE RED SOX

No. 7.—George Hollis, Pitcher and Fielder.

George Hollis, pitcher or outfielder belongs in Cincinnati, where he was born June 27, 1887; first played with Vicksburg, Miss., in 1906, was with Medicine Hat in 1907, Syracuse in 1908, and then with Charleston, Va. He's a left-hander and quite a lad at the game. George can pitch some, and may get a trial at it. He's got an excellent pitching record with those Southern teams. Favorite sport is duck shooting. Chief dissipation pinochle.

READVILLE GRAND CIRCUIT STAKES

All doubts as to whether the Readville track would accept its Grand Circuit dates of August 28-September 2 were removed when E. M. Stalker, the secretary, announced the following list of early closing events: The Blue Hill 2:18 trot, $2,000 (amateur drivers); the American Foaling Derby, $2,000; the Banker Hill pacing handicap, $2,000; the Neponset 2:15 pace, $2,000. Entries close April 17.

NEW BEDFORD LOSES BARROWS

New Bedford fans are sorry to learn that Manager Down has failed to secure Roland Barrows for the New Bedford club, but the former New Bedford outfielder will once more be in the New England League circuit, as arrangements have been completed for the White Sox recruit to captain the Lowell team on the field this year.

Manager Gray offered Barrows a fine inducement, so that the Maine boy gave up his business in Gorham and will report to the Lowell management very soon.

"Cuke's" debut into the professional ranks was made in New Bedford in 1908, and he immediately made good in the New England League circuit. He was a sure, fast fielder and could hit almost anything. Barrows is but twenty-six years of age. He was drafted by the White Sox from the New Bedford club.

EASY FOR NEW YORK.

DALLAS, Tex., March 27.—New York Nationals won an easy victory over the Dallas Texas League team 6 to 3. Devore got a single, a double and a triple out of five times up, stole second, third and home and scored once from second on a sacrifice hit.

FRESHMEN SQUAD CUT.

The Harvard freshmen baseball squad suffers its third cut to-day, twenty men being retained on the squad. They are—Avery, Blackman, Bettle, Carron, Chatfield, Curtis, Faulkner, Griffiths, Harvey, Hodge, Hyde, Magwood, Niholland, Perkins, Randall, Sager, Wingate, Williams, Reynolds and Bliss.

TENNEY NOT TO TRADE MATTERN TO PIRATES

By R. W. LARDNER, American Correspondent with Rustlers on Augusta Tour.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 27.—There was a slight possibility of the Augusta ball team getting another beating at the hands of the Rustlers this afternoon, but it wasn't a probability, because Manager Tenney was more in favor of staging a scrap between the Regulars and Yanigans. He thought this the better plan, because the Yanigans were likely to give the club more of a battle and quite a game would keep most of the bunches busy, instead of allowing more than half the squad to roll around on the grass and wait idly for the ride back to the hotel.

R. W. LARDNER.

Pittsburg scribes appear to be getting pretty free with Boston ballplayers. The latest puff out from the dizzy folk of it, traded one of Fred Clarke's superduous catchers for Al Mattern.

No Joking Permitted.

Some folks may be willing to let these Pittsburgers manage our ball team, but there is strenuous objection to their making a mess of their self-appointed task. Clarke has four catchers, Gibson, with whom he could not afford to part; Simon, who would have been used more frequently, if he had the goods; O'Connor, who hasn't had even a speaking part since he became a Pirate, and Martin, a recruit.

If any one thinks Tenney is going to ship Mattern to Pittsburg for Simon, or O'Connor, or both of them, he is either insane, or believes that Tenney is. There isn't one of the Pirate staff that looks like an even trade for Albert.

Then why should that valuable left-hander be swapped for catchers who are hardly worthy of the task of shining his shoes.

Presumably the tale was built on the fact that Peaches Graham hasn't signed, and that Boston will be laid up for his services quickly and accurately. Watch how often he refers to an I. C. S. handbook while you try to remember the rule or figure it out for your own way. He has the expert advice of the largest faculty of technical men in the country at his elbow. Comfort for Batters.

There is one bit of solid comfort for the left-handed batters in the squad, and that is that they won't have to face a southpaw pitcher during the coming of the regular season. Jim has been pitching down in Texas during the off season, and he was just as good on Saturday as he will be in June. Young Allen was also at his best. The two of them were by far the luckiest men the Rustlers have been asked to crack, and the fact that it took an exceptional batting by Mr. Chase to save the day for the Rustlers is encouraging to our fans.

Before departing from the subject of the New York team let me tell you why, to wit: Arthur Irwin will be its manager before the 1911 season is over.

Boston is going to get a great portion of the glory for having a big thing done by Charley Herzog, and his performance as shortstop will be worth going out to see. Perhaps Herzy has never been appreciated at his full value, or possibly he never has been as good as he is at present.

At any rate, on his present form you would line up all the shortstops in the National League beside him and you wouldn't pick any one else in preference to this intelligent farmer. Mr. Tenney surely made a master move when he switched Herzy to short and Sweeney to second, for Charley is right in his element now, and William warms up to his new job as if he never had seen any other position.

I STILL INSIST THAT THEY CAN'T ESCAPE MY ETERNAL VIGILANCE.

CLASSY CARD AT ARMORY CLUB

The Armory A. A. will be the point of interest to which boxing fans throughout the city will turn their attention tomorrow night when one of the classiest all-star programmes that the directors have arranged in some time will be presented to the members.

Boston followers know the boxers that will appear against the visiting outsiders and they are holding out great hopes of them making good against the strangers.

After the six round bout in which a sizzling contest is expected between Mark Conley of South Boston and Kid Willetts of Fall River, comes Buck Crouse, the Frank Perron of Pawtucket, in a ten round bout.

Following this comes the bout between Tommy O'Keefe of Philadelphia and the promising home boy, Johnny Glover of South Boston.

Both boxers have been making excellent showings in recent matches and should furnish a contest nothing short of sensational.

The closing match for the night introduces Paul Kohler of Cleveland, who meets Eddie Murphy of South Boston, a logical candidate for championship honors.

Great interest is attached to this match and the prevailing opinion is that Kohler is going to make Eddie the fourth Boston boy to extend himself.

From the interest which is already being taken an overflow attendance of members is anticipated.

BOXING NEWS AND GOSSIP

Ordene Johny Thompson, who just arrived here recently from an extended trip in Australia and England, is taking matters very much to heart, just because he spent a little coin in the foreign lands he expects to get it all back in one fight and has put down a prize price of $5,000 for a ten-round bout. He was offered fights while abroad, including a win over Billy Papke in a twenty-round bout.

Owen Moran, the English lightweight, says that he will never box before the National Sporting Club of London again because he cannot hope for a square deal unless he scores a knockout. Moran praises the American sporting men and he declares that is the reason why he is disliked in his own country. He would like to meet Matt Wells over in England, but not unless Hugh McIntosh stages the bout.

Frank Klaus will see nothing by the postponement of his match with Hugo Kelly, for he will meet Marcus Jack Sullivan at the Fall River Mount Club, New York, on Tuesday night. Sullivan is a New York middleweight of considerable ability and those who have seen him say that the middleweight class have anything on him. This will be a good afternoon's work for Klaus.

Bill the Sullivans keep coming in the boxing world. The latest members of the Sullivan club are the Sylvester brothers. Both have paddled around in the squared circle for some time and while Jack and Bill Sylvester are not middleweights and they do not weigh over 150 pounds, Nebraska and Massachusetts Sullivans.

That bout between Paul Kaehler of Cleveland and Eddie Murphy of South Boston at the Armory A. A. on Tuesday will be a great chance for one of the boys to shoot himself into the limelight and that bout will be sought by every fight club in the land. The boys will have something to strive for.

Tom O'Rourke of the National Sporting Club of New York has offered Packey McFarland $5,000 for a bout with Freddie Welsh of England and Packey McFarland has challenged Welsh for a match with Packey and Champion Wolgast with a $7,000 purse.

Abe Attell, the champion featherweight of the world, meets Frankie Burns of New Jersey at the National Sporting Club of New York, Friday night. It is a ten-round bout. Attell has agreed to make the 126-pound ringside, which means that the bout will be far from a one-sided affair.

The much discussed bout between Sam Langford, the Boston Tar Baby, and Samuel McVey will be pulled off at Paris next Saturday night. It is now reported. It is understood that McVey is asking for a large purse before he enters the ring.

Hugo Kelly will not be able to fight for several weeks, being confined in bed with a bad attack of grip which he contracted the day before his battle at the Armory A. A. Kelly was booked for several more bouts this week, including one at the Armory with Frank Klaus on April 4.

Tommy Quill of Brockton will go to Buffalo for a bout with Paddy Lavin on Tuesday night. The boys will meet for ten rounds and it should be a great bout. Both are fast welters and are out for the coveted welterweight championship. purse for Ad and $5,000 for the Chicago boy.

Paul Kaehler will put his title aside over in New York in one of those ten-round bouts on April 4, but he will have Tommy Murphy as his opponent. They will meet at the Fairmount A. A. At all events, the boys should put up the greatest kind of a bout.

The New Haven fans will be treated to one of the best bouts ever seen in that city when Young Wagner of New York meets Alf Lynch, the Canadian heatweight, in a fifteen-round bout. Lynch recently gave Frankie Burns a severe drubbing.

Jim Savage, who is at present howled as a "white man's hope," owing to his knockout of Frank Moran, will meet a foeman worthy of his steel in Tommy Maxson, at the Olympic Club of New York.

Val Moore is getting into shape fast for his bout with Freddie Welsh on April 7. Welsh is doing his training stunts at Jack Lee's gymnasium in New York.

GIANTS SECONDS WIN.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 27.—In a fast game marked by excellent fielding of the visitors the New York National second team defeated the San Antonio, Texas, League team by a score of 2 to 1.

Who's Who IN SPORT

No. 77—DORIA FAVREAU.

Doria Favreau, Marlboro, age 21 years, small stature, weight 165, signed to play outfield for Lowell; played with St. Anselm's College, Manchester, for three years; also played on and captained the basket ball team; ran the dashes for the track team; has been timed in 10 2-5 for the 100-yard dash. Chosen to play at the Massachusetts All-Stars against the Cuban team on April 19th at American League grounds. Lives in Marlboro.

VETERANS JOIN WALTHAM SQUAD

All but three of last year's regulars have notified Coach Harry A. Hales of the Waltham High baseball squad that they will be out for the nine this year. The outlook for a strong team to represent the Watch City school is unusually encouraging.

About fifty candidates will report for outdoor work as soon as the weather man tells Coach Hales to go ahead. Among these will be a number of players from the second team last season.

Walter Packard will be the captain and will probably play his old position in right field. George L. Ward, teacher-manager has arranged a exciting schedule.

The opening game will be played with Wellesley High April 5 at Waltham, and will be the first time in several years that Wellesley and the Watch City school boys have met in any athletic contest. The schools were formerly rivals in football and baseball.

Jack Leary, now of the Philadelphia Athletics, who did nearly all of the catching a year ago, will be greatly missed. Thomas Smith, who played second base, and Wilson, third baseman, are the other two boys who graduated last June.

Veterans out are William Harry, "Ty" Cobb, Duffy, Healey, Filson and Blankard. There are several good players qualified from the second team last season, including Andrews, Hinchey, Healy, Hardy, Smith and Stone.

Most of the box work will be done by William Barry, Cobb, southpaw, formerly of Athol High, will probably be the second string man. The schedule:

April 8—Wellesley at Waltham.
April 12—Open at Waltham.
April 15—Open at Waltham.
April 19—Milton at Waltham.
April 22—Somerville at Waltham.
April 26—Brookline at Waltham.
April 28—South Boston at Waltham.
April 29—Lynn C. H. at Waltham.
May 3—Newton at Waltham.
May 13—Commerce High at Waltham.
May 17—Harvard Second at Cambridge.
May 20—Methuen Arts at Waltham.
May 24—Somerville at Waltham.
May 27—Arlington at Waltham.
May 31—Wellesley at Waltham.
June 3—Open at Waltham.
June 7—Closter at Waltham.
June 10—Newton at Waltham.
June 14—Natick at Waltham.
June 17—Lynn E. H. at Waltham.

BLACKBURN'S BIG FORTUNE DWINDLES

CHICAGO, March 27.—Blackburn, the crippled White Sox player, is not a "$2,000,000 kid" nor even a "$1,000,000 kid," according to his own assertion at Mercy Hospital. "Blackie," as he is known to his friends, was mighty clipper for a man who is going to undergo a serious operation within a week or so.

"If I am heir to $2,000,000 it certainly is news to me," replied Leun to a query propounded him. "If there is that much real money in the world I never heard of it." Blackburn then said his share of his grandmothers' estate in the final division many months hence he expects to receive $40,000.

SIXTEEN PLAYERS SIGN WITH GRAYS

PROVIDENCE, March 27.—Sixteen players has been signed by the Providence club of the Eastern League, and it is stated Business Manager Reilly has forty-four names on his list. Some of the regulars are holding off for more money. Last year the management had thirty-four men in training.

Mike Donlin, former leader of the New York Giants, who is here on a theatrical engagement with his wife, will coach the batters at the ball park this week.

BILL BEATTY'S PETS TO BOWL YACHTSMEN

As a fitting close to a successful bowling season to Mosquito Fleet Yacht Club, City Point, this evening will roll a match game with "Bill Beatty's Pets," composed of Brown, Heluta, Christopher or House, Galway and Beatty. The yachtsmen number some good rollers among them and expect to make things interesting for Bill and his "Pets."

SCHOOL NINES OPEN SEASON

Not to be outdone by the big fellows, the schoolboy baseball teams start work in earnest this week. The big noise in school circles is the game between Dean Academy and Wellesley High at Franklin on next Saturday. Dean Academy has always been represented by a speedy nine, and has taken a full out of some of the big college teams on more than one occasion. In Wellesley High, Dean will meet a team that is as much when it comes to efficiency in the great national game, and will have to play its best game in order to win.

With all of the school diamonds drying out in good shape, the greater number of the school teams of Greater Boston will get down to business in the open air the first of this week. The soggy conditions of the school diamonds has kept the youngsters indoors so far this season, but now that old Sol is again on the job in old-time form, the schoolboys will desert the gymnasium for once and for all.

Season a Banner One.

This year should be a banner one for the youthful ball tossers. Never before have so many candidates responded to the calls for candidates. The coaches in the different schools are elated over the fine showing made by some of the men in the practice sessions. But then every good coach knows only too well that some of the men who make a favorable impression while playing indoors fall down dismally when it comes to delivering the goods out in the open.

Many of the best schoolboy ball tossers turned out in the high schools of Greater Boston have proved rank failures while working out in the cage. They were unable to hit the coolest of balls, while deciding they fumbled an easy chance. Yet those same men were model leaguers when it came to playing the game as it should be played out of doors. This only goes to show that some of the glowing reports received from the different school camps of the big leaguers during the summer are to be taken with a good-sized grain of salt. Nevertheless, during the last few years that most of all the teams are stronger this year than ever.

The race for the schoolboy championship of the State should be a hummer, as most of the leading teams of last year are still intact. The leading teams are also plentifully supplied with large numbers of promising youngsters who are bound to make the veterans of by-gone campaigns step some if they are to hold down their old places.

Crowley Has Hopes.

At the Boston English High school Coach John Crowley has great hopes of turning out a winner. Last year the Montgomery street school was represented by a rattling good nine. The nine engaged in more games than any other team in the State, playing three games a week.

Coach Crowley has had the men working out in the school gymnasium, and says that he has some lively candidates on hand. the places made vacant by those two stars, Harold Jarvis, who is with the Red Sox, and Bill Kebner, now with the Lawrence club of the New England League.

Dorchester High should have a good team this year if the players are brought to a realization of the fact that they cannot play baseball unless they attend to their scholarship requirements. At the present writer half the regular team dates for the team are below in their studies, and unless they wake up pretty soon Dorchester will have to go into the fray with a patched up team.

At Commerce the chances for a winning team are again very bright. Last year the Fenway school won the schoolboy championship of the State, and with all but two members of the winning aggregation still in school the supporters of the Blue and Gray are confident that their team will repeat.

GIANTS THIRD WIN

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 27.—New York Nationals third division won from the Fort Worth, Texas League team, 6 to 0. Ames pitched five innings and allowed two hits.

ALL IS SERENE ONCE MORE AT THE Adams House. The vacant chair in the corridor is again filled with the august personage of Colonel George W. Leavitt. For more than a month the colonel has been absent sojourning over the stock farms in and about Lexington, Ky., but now he has returned with a report of new and exciting stories and great is the rejoicing thereof. To-day for his long daily in the Blue Grass country, the colonel bought a likely racing prospect in the two-year-old colt, Also, by Moko, and has placed him in the charge of Trainer Jimmy Carpenter at Readville. The colonel, too, brought North the three year old colt, Nash, 2:24¼, trial of 2:15½, last season, and the son of Cochato also goes to Carpenter.

THERE WILL BE A GREAT GATHERing of the trotting horse clans at Combination Park to-morrow, and after the long Winter it will really mean a reunion with the greetings between old friends. A nine by nine dirt track field is to officiate in selling the horses consigned to the sale. By the way, Lockwood & Co. intend making the sale an annual affair. With Fasig-Tipton Company holding the New England field with their Down East sales, it is good news that the local horsemen are still to have a home market in which to dispose of their stock for the high dollar.

FROM NOW TILL THE VARSITY BOAT race with Yale it will be the straight and narrow path for the crimson crew. This morning for the first time this Spring the candidates, to the number of ten men and Coach Wray sat down to breakfast at the training table. In counting noses it was found that they included Captain H. W. Cutler, G. H. Balch, A. M. Goodale, R. F. Hooper, G. F. Metcalf, G. F. Newton, Jr., G. F. Stratton, A. Strong, J. Waite and Lolarep Withington. These are on the varsity with the exception of Waite and Hooper.

ALL THAT SANDY FERGURON IS asking his critics to do now is wait till after his mixup with Andy Morris at Portland next Saturday night and then will find he is still in the "white man's sugar" class. So says that he had the bout postponed from the original date so as to be in perfect condition. But don't forget that Morris is looking to put a dent in Hankins's tad jug, for he thereby gets on a match with Jim Savage of New York.

* * *

ACCORDING TO "HONEY MELLODY" they passed one over on him in his bout with Bill Hurley at Glens Falls and he is badly peeved at it, the way he was stacked against it. Mellody says that Hurley was a light heavyweight and with wrestling, butting and other unfair means he was fortunate to get a draw at the end of the tenth round. However, Mellody wouldn't make a kick at this late day if Hurley's backers are trying to further their own ends at his expense.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE HYDE PARK and Dedham boxing fans. The Hyde Park A. C., I understand, will reopen in a few weeks with one fine card.

THERE IS STILL HOPE IN SAPULPA Will it be there to-morrow night. Here's hoping, but it may be hopeless.

MORRIS DUE TO BEAT SHRECK

Carl Morris, the only and original White Man's Hope of Sapulpa, Oklahoma, will look horns with Mike Shreck—we all know him out in Pagoda to-morrow afternoon. Of course, fight fans all over the country would much rather see the Western giant mix things up with a younger antagonist than Shreck, but as the world of fathom beyond the muddy Mississippi is satisfied with the go, East-ern fight followers will have to be content.

It is estimated that the house will bring $25,000 force per cent of which is to go to Morris, win, lose or draw. If Morris wins he will fight before houses of people more than $25,000 and if he loses he will be lucky to get on as a preliminary fighter. This fight will either make or break him.

Morris is confident of sending Shreck down for the count. If he wins he says he will then go after Al Kaufmann, and if a victory over Kaufmann he will try to get a match with Jack Johnson.

TO BOWL FOR SQUIRES.

Ten men picked from the A. O. U. W. and A. H. A. bowlers from the Newspaper League will roll at the Adams squares alleys next Monday night. The highest grand total will win the match and supper for the score of bowlers.

MUTT AND JEFF HATCH MISCHIEF

Up to something! You can just bet they are. Mutt and Jeff have taken to-day off, and in doing so are hatching up a whole lot of mischief, which will be told in to-morrow's AMERICAN. So don't miss the awfully funny cartoon.

On the level, if Mutt doesn't break up that mixup in Mexico with his latest plan of campaign the rebellion is apt to continue along till red hot weather rails off the main bout, to perhaps be renewed when the Fall season opens.

FUNERAL OF STANLEY ROBISON IS TO-DAY

CLEVELAND, O., March 27.—Prominent baseball officials will be honorary pallbearers at the funeral of Stanley Robinson, owner of the St. Louis National League Club, which will be held to-day from the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Robinson. Dean Dumeulin of Trinity Cathedral will conduct the services.

The honorary pall-bearers announced include Thomas J. Lynch and Ban J. Johnson, presidents, respectively, of the National and American Leagues; August Herrmann, chairman of the national commission, and William Hepburn Russell, president of the Boston National League Club.

BOWLERS OPEN AMATEUR GAMES

Starting to-day and continuing until April 22, there will be a Boston pin tournament in the Adams square alleys. The events are open to amateurs, and special silver trophies will be awarded to the winners. There will be a class for five-men teams, the highest total to win; six consecutive string for individuals and for two teams, five highest and six consecutive strings rolled by any individual during the course of the tournament.

For the tournament the following teams have entered: Arlington Boat Club, Newton; B. A. A., State Street, Dudley, Dorchester; B. A. A., Washington Street, Dudley; Goods Commission, Custom House; Stone & Webster Bank and Trust, Metcalfe; U. S. Express, Hyde Park; Vaughn, Boston Elevated. Iron League and Furniture League.

AMATEUR BOXING TOURNEY TO-NIGHT

The Riverside Boat Club of Cambridge will hold the amateur boxing tournament to-night, and the entries in the open classes at 105, 115, 125 and 135 pounds are the strongest that ever entered at a boxing meeting of the club. The bouts will be held in the spacious hall, Cambridge, and will start promptly at 7 p. m., as 101 amateurs boxers have sent in their names.

The Matter of Style

Every season the question of style is put up to us by new patrons. They wish to be assured that we can build a suit that is "right" as regards style.

Well! our story on this point is not long drawn out. It runs well with our entire story, and we will assemble everything into a few paragraphs.

For 19 years we have made good clothes for many of the best dressed men in Boston—and all over New England. Our desire never has been for extremes—although, on demand, we will build the limit in a suit.

Our striving has been to build clothes that were stylish—well 'fitted—and bore every ear mark of correct tailoring. Any man who ever wore Gale & Kent clothes had the satisfaction of knowing that he was dressed as other gentlemen were dressed—no matter what price the others paid for their clothes.

As to the young man in the illustration—we have few like him on our books. He is the great exception—the fashion-plate type.

The men we are after for patrons are the men who want a neat-looking, sensible suit or overcoat—something that will wear well, hold its shape—and that we will guarantee to be satisfactory in every way.

We will make that kind of a suit (or overcoat) to your measure for $15 to $25—from the finest and biggest stock of goods-in-the-piece to be found in any tailor shop in America.

Last Saturday's business was the largest single day's business in March for 19 years. Merely goes to show that what the public wants is the goods, and when they find them, they tell their friends.

The Sheriff's Daughter as His Deputy

WHEN a man is bored with the club, the theater and his friends, the only thing for him to do is to take a trip to the country and hunt the rabbit and get his mind in a new channel.

Thus Ronald Bligh left the town for the country and brought up among the rabbits. He had a diploma as a civil engineer, but an aunt was inconsiderate enough to die and leave him a fortune, and so what was the use?

And, further, when he had heard of a quiet village that can be reached in an hour and a half—a quiet village with a fairly decent tavern—a quiet village with rabbits almost tearing their tracks in the main street—what's the use of being bored or of boring others?

Mr. Bligh arrived at the quiet village. He sauntered out with gun on shoulder and peppered rabbits. He also peppered other things—at least, one other thing. He peppered a dog belonging to a farmer. It was a dog that objected to the hunter plowing through a foot of snow on his master's land. The hunter and the farmer differed as to the value of the canine, and it threw some aloud that the farmer took a trip to the county seat and procured a warrant for malicious trespass and called upon the sheriff to serve it.

The sheriff was in bed with a rheumatic attack, and his constables scattered here and there, and the red-hot farmer vowed that warrant served instanter.

Mr. Bligh had returned to the quiet village and the tavern and had eaten a fairly decent supper and sat down in his room for a smoke when the landlord came up and informed him that Miss Finchley was in the sitting room and wished to speak to him.

A Girl Sheriff

"And who the devil is Miss Finchley?" asked the surprised rabbit hunter.

"A very nice young lady—very nice."

"But I can't remember any one of her name."

As he reached the sitting room a young lady arose and came forward to ask:

"Did you have some trouble with Farmer Henderson to-day?"

"It might have been Henderson; I didn't learn his name."

"Well, I have a warrant for your arrest. It is made out in the name of John Doe, but I guess you are the one wanted. You will have to come with me."

"But how—how is it?" exclaimed the hunter.

"I'm the sheriff's daughter, you see. He deputises me now and then to make an arrest. I hope you won't think of resisting the law. I must take you to the county seat. You can travel right in his rig."

"And you mean I'm actually under arrest?"

"I have served the warrant, sir. Should you refuse to go quietly——"

"Oh, I'll go quietly enough!"

The sheriff's daughter had come with horse and cutter.

Mr. Bligh soon found that his captor was as well educated as she was good-looking. He had been surprised and vexed at first, for he now took the adventure more in the light of a lark. The horse was fast, the sleighing fine, and the conversation interesting.

The hunter had almost forgotten that he was a prisoner when they suddenly stopped before a two-story brick building with iron-barred windows.

"This is the jail," was announced. "You see, it is too late for you to be arraigned this evening. That will take place at 9 o'clock in the morning."

"And I'm to be jailed overnight?"

"You can't give bail until you are arraigned, you know."

Prisoner Discharged

"Miss Finchley, I have enjoyed my drive with the sheriff's daughter, even though a prisoner, but I don't want any more of the law until morning. I will go to the inn and report myself here at 9 o'clock."

This was agreeable, and the next morning, as he finished an early breakfast, he found a man at his elbow, who said:

"I am Gripp, the lawyer. I have taken your case."

"But I haven't employed you."

"No. Miss Finchley telephoned me. She said if you hadn't escaped I'd better see you through."

"Thanks to Miss Finchley."

Farmer Henderson made out as desperate a case that the justice doubted his testimony and discharged the prisoner. Then he was overcome again by Mr. Bligh, who put a $20 bill in his hand and said he was sorry the thing had happened. When the lawyer received the bill he was asked where the sheriff resided.

Half an hour later he was holding out his hand to the sheriff's daughter and trying to say nice things, while at the same time he was saying to himself that he might be brought out additional charms.

"Miss Finchley, are there any rabbits in the country hereabouts?" he finally asked.

"Thousands, they tell me," was the answer.

"Then I shall move over here and hunt them."

And there are those mean enough to say that he hasn't killed a single rabbit yet, but is hunting for a bride. It's said.

What Chance Has a Poor Man?

How the Art of Luca della Robbia Inspired Bernard Palissy to Endure a Life of Poverty While Searching for the Secret of the Great Artist's Enamels

BAMBINO—BY DELLA ROBBIA

SINGING GALLERY—BY LUCA DELLA ROBBIA

By THOMAS TAPPER

IN the year 1011 such a multitude of chances that the very presence of them blinds the vision.

But it was different in the year 1511, and yet not so very different.

In that year there was born in the south of France a boy—Palissy by name. He was christened Bernard. The boy's father was a glass-worker, so poor that he could not educate Bernard, who once said: "I have no other books than heaven and earth, which are open to all."

This boy was reared in his father's bottleshop, learning glassmaking and the art of painting on glass. At eighteen he left home and went out into the world, the world of heaven and earth, which is open to all. Whenever opportunity offered he worked at his trade—being, as you see, a true Journeyman; a man who journeys and subsists by his labor.

At twenty-eight, he married and settled down to earn his living by glass painting and land surveying. The latter art he learned after he left his father's house. With a wife and children, he found it necessary to do all he could to increase his earnings.

Neither glass painting nor land surveying, nor both, proved sufficient. So he set himself to learn, with absolutely no help, the art of painting and enameling earthenware.

What gave his ambition this trend as a means of increasing his skill and income, was apparently an accident. He saw one day a beautiful dish, one probably made by the great Italian artist, Luca della Robbia.

Bernard Palissy stood before it in wonder, and determined to make cups like it.

To discover the enamel of that Italian cup so dominated his thought that he forgot everything else—even the necessary increase of income to feed and clothe his family.

Like a man groping in the dark, he began to mix and bake earth. He bought, when he could, earthenware pots, broke them to bits, mixed them with compounds and baked them in a furnace of his own construction. Time after time he went through this process, and the only result was a hungry family and a discouraged man.

This quest for the enamel of that Italian cup went on for years. When he had to, he worked at land surveying and glass painting; but these took a secondary place, and he resorted to them only to provide the necessities of life for his family and himself.

Then Palissy became too poor to build a furnace and provide it with the fuel necessary to make his earthenware. He was compelled to take his wares to a glass furnace in a neighboring town to be baked. Practically no result followed this, although he noted that the heat in the glass furnace, being greater than that generated in the furnace he had himself built, produced better enamel.

Two more years passed. Poverty pursued him sorely, but he determined on one more trial. He made a sufficient quantity of enamelling compound to cover three hundred pieces of earthenware and sent them to a glass furnace for baking.

Of these three hundred pieces when taken out to cool, ONE was what he had so long sought for. JUST ONE PIECE OUT OF THREE HUNDRED!—and of the many hundreds that had gone before.

"It was a singularly beautiful piece," said Palissy.

Then he determined to build a glass furnace for himself near his house, where he could watch the process more carefully and constantly. He did all the work himself, and it took him nearly a year.

The pots were prepared, the fire was lighted, and Palissy sat close by, watching and feeding the fuel to the furnace. He sat up all night, never taking his eyes from the process going on in the heat.

His wife brought his breakfast to him, and he sat another day, and another night —and so on until six days and nights had gone, and the enamel compound did not melt.

Was it the last failure?

He started over again and mixed his compounds differently, and succeeded in borrowing enough to reconstruct his furnace. When the fire was made, the man watched and watched, but still the enamel would not melt.

Then the fuel gave out.

He rushed out and tore down the fence and added it to the fire. Still the enamel did not melt.

Perhaps if he could keep the fire going just a little longer it would come! He rushed into the house and smashed every bit of furniture that would burn and kept the fire going.

THEN THE ENAMEL MELTED!

But it was not until a period of nineteen years had passed that Palissy actually found himself master of the situation.

Then he called himself a potter.

In all that time he had struggled and starved himself and his loved ones pursuing that which he thought many times he was destined never to overtake—the vision of an enamel glaze on an Italian vase that he once saw by chance.

One of the Greatest Mystery Stories Ever Written. By A. E. W. Mason. Copyright, 1909, 1910, by A. E. W. Mason

HELENE VAUQUIER let her fall. She felt composedly in her pocket, and drew from it an aluminum flash—the same flash which Lemaresq was after, want to snatch up in the bedroom in Geneva. Celia stared at her in dread. She saw the flash flashing in the light. She shrank from it. She wondered what new horror was to grip her. Helene unscrewed the top and laughed pleasantly.

"Mlle. Celie is under control," she said. "We have to teach her that it is not polite in young ladies to kick." She pressed Celie down with a hand upon her back, and her voice changed. "Lie still," she commanded savagely. "Do you hear? Do you know what this is, Mlle. Celie?" And she held the flask toward the girl's face. "This is vitriol, my pretty one. More, and I'll spoil those smooth white shoulders for you. How would you like that?

Celia shuddered from head to foot, and burying her face in the cushion, lay trembling. She would have begged for death upon her knees rather than suffer this horror. She felt Vauquier's fingers lingering with a dreadful caressing touch upon her shoulders and about her throat. She was within an ace of the torture, the disfigurement, and she knew it. She could not pray for mercy. She could only lie quite still, as she was bidden, trying to control the shuddering of her limbs and body.

"It would be a good lesson for Mlle. Celie," Helene continued slowly. "I think that if Mlle. Celie will forgive the liberty I ought to inflict it. One little tilt of the flask and the satin of these pretty shoulders——"

She broke off suddenly and listened. Some sound heard outside had given Celia a respite, perhaps more than a respite.

Helene set the flask down upon the table. Her avarice had got the better of her hatred.

She roughly plucked the earrings out of the girl's ears. She hid them quickly in the bosom of her dress with her eye upon the door.

She did not see a drop of blood gather on the lobe of Celia's ear and fall into the cushion on which her face was pressed. She had hardly hidden them away before the door opened and Adele Rossignol burst into the room.

"What is the matter?" asked Vauquier.

"The safe's empty. We have searched the room. We have found nothing," she cried.

"Everything is in the safe," Helene insisted.

"No."

The two women ran out of the room and up the stairs. Celia, lying on the settee, heard all the quiet of the house change to noise and confusion. It was as though a tornado raged in the room overhead.

Furniture was tossed about and over the room, feet stamped and ran, locks were smashed in with heavy blows.

For many minutes the storm raged. Then it ceased, and she heard the accomplices clattering down the stairs, without a thought of the noise they made.

They burst into the room.

Harry Wethermill was laughing hysterically, like a man off his head. He had been wearing a long dark overcoat when he entered the house; now he carried the coat over his arm. He was in a dinner jacket, and his black clothes were dusty and disordered.

"It's all for nothing!" he screamed, rather than cried. "Nothing but the one necklace and a handful of rings!"

In a frenzy he actually stooped over the dead woman and questioned her.

"Tell us—where did you hide them?" he cried.

"The girl will know," said Helene.

Wethermill rose up and looked wildly at Celia.

"Yes, yes," he said.

He had no scruple, no pity any longer for the girl. There was no gain from the crime unless she spoke. He would have placed his head in the guillotine for nothing.

He ran to the writing table, tore off half a sheet of paper and brought it over with a pencil to the sofa. He gave them to Vauquier to hold, and drawing out the sofa from the wall slipped behind.

He lifted up Celia with Rossignol's help and made her sit in the middle of the sofa with her feet upon the ground. He unbound her wrists and fingers, and Vauquier placed the writing pad and the paper on the girl's knees.

Her arms were still pinioned above the elbows; she could not raise her hands high enough to snatch the scarf from her lips. But with the pad held up to her she could write.

"Where did she keep her jewels! Quick! Take the pencil and write," said Wethermill, holding her left wrist.

Vauquier thrust the pencil into her right hand and awkwardly and slowly her gloved fingers moved across the page.

"I do not know," she wrote; and, with an oath, Wethermill snatched the paper up, tore it into pieces and threw it down.

"You have got to know," he said, his face purple with passion, and he clung out his arm as though he would dash his fist into her face.

But as he stood with his arm poised there came a singular change upon his face.

"Did you hear anything?" he asked in a whisper.

All listened and all heard in the quiet of the night a faint click, and after an interval they heard it again, and after another but shorter interval yet once more.

"That's the gate," said Wethermill in a whisper of fear, and a pulse of hope stirred within Celia.

He seized her wrists, crushed them together behind her and swiftly fastened them once more. Adele Rossignol sat down upon the floor, took the girl's feet upon her lap and quietly wrenched off her shoes.

"The light," cried Wethermill in an agonized voice, and Helene Vauquier flew across the room and turned it off.

All three stood holding their breath, straining their ears in the dark room. On the hard gravel of the drive outside footsteps became faintly audible and grew louder and louder. Adele whispered to Vauquier:

"Has the girl a lover?"

And Helene Vauquier, even at that moment, laughed quietly.

All Celia's heart and youth rose in revolt against her extremity. If she could only free her lips! The footsteps came around the corner of the house, they sounded on the drive outside the very window of this room. One cry, and she would be saved.

She tossed back her head and tried to force the handkerchief out from between her teeth.

But Wethermill's hand covered her mouth and held it closed.

The footsteps stopped, a light shone for a moment outside. The very handle of the door was tried. Within a few yards of her she knew—help and life. Just a frail battered wooden door stood between her and them.

She tried to rise to her feet.

Adele Rossignol held her legs firmly.

She was powerless. She sat with one desperate hope that, whoever it was who was in the garden, he would break in.

Now it is even another murderer. He might have more pity than the callous brutes who held her now; he could not have less. But the footsteps moved away almost the cruelest part of the whole tragedy. They waited in the darkness until the faint click of the gate was heard once more. Then the light was turned up again.

"We must go," said Wethermill. All three of them were shaken. They stood looking at one another, white and trembling. They spoke in whispers. To get out of the room, to have done with the business—that had suddenly become their chief necessity.

Adele picked up the necklace and the rings from the sathwood table and put them into a pocket-bag which was slung at her waist.

"Hippolyte shall turn these things into money," she said. "He shall set about it to-morrow. We shall have to keep the girl now—until she tells us where the rest is hidden."

"Yes, keep her," said Helene. "We will come over to Geneva in a few days, as soon as we can. We will persuade her to tell." She glanced darkly at the girl. Celia shivered.

"Yes, that's it," said Wethermill. "But don't harm her. She will tell of her own will. You will see. The delay won't hurt now. We can't come back and search for a little while."

To Be Continued To-morrow.

John Smith In Search Of a Wife

He Describes the Girl He Is Looking for

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

JOHN SMITH had been visiting his friends, the Carrolls, at their country place.

"Marian," he said, at the end of the first week, "I have been here a week, and there has been a different girl here for dinner every one of the seven nights. By this kind attention, on your part, I gather that you are still interested in my matrimonial plans. Isn't it so?"

"Yes," confessed his hostess, "it is and I must say, John Smith, you are awfully hard to suit. Haven't all these girls been just as attractive as they could be?"

"Perfect angels, every one of them."

"Then why don't you fall in love with one of them?"

"My dear Marian, I can't fall in love to order."

"But these are all such exceptionally nice girls. Take Rose L——, for instance; what's the matter with her? She's pretty enough, I am sure."

"Pretty as a peach; but she hasn't an idea but beaux and fleeting in that pretty little empty head of hers.

Called Children Brats

"Well, then, there's Kate L——; you seemed taken with her, I thought."

"I was until she said she hated dogs and spoke of children as horrid little brats; I don't want that kind of a girl for a wife."

"That was horrid of her; I wouldn't have thought she was that kind; how about Miss G——?"

"Too masculine; talks like a man and tries to look like one. I want to be the man in my family, thank you; and my wife can't be too feminine to suit me."

"Dear me! There's something the matter with all of them," sighed Marian. "I don't mind those things so much."

"No; but you are not looking on those girls as possible wives," ventured John, meekly.

"That's so; it does make a difference in the point of view. Well, let me see. Oh, how about Mollie K——; don't you think she's awfully attractive?"

"Yes, I do; but Mollie will, never be satisfied with the attention of one man. She'll be a married flirt; and that I could not endure. No fellow with any pride could."

"Just what qualities do you want in a wife, John? I'm afraid you're going to have hard work finding one to suit you."

The Kind He Wanted

"I want her to be sympathetic and tender and intelligent. She must be healthy, I'd want her to be pretty, and she must love John Smith. That's the kind of wife I want.

"H——m—m; you want a good deal, I think; must be clever also?"

"Intelligent, I said; that's better than being a genius.

"Well, John Smith, I hope you'll find this wonderful girl. I'm sure I've done my best to help you."

"That you have, little Miss Marian; and I daresay you'll be the one to find her in the long run. In the meantime——"

"Yes; in the meantime?"

"I'm going to keep my eyes open and look for my golden girl. She's somewhere waiting for me, I know."

To-day's Best Story

THERE lived and preached for many years in Rhode Island Elder George Champlin, a colored man, possessed of much common sense, knowledge of his brethren's virtues and failings, and considerable wit.

He had many devoted admirers among his people, but some of them felt that his sermons were apt to be a little too personal and pointed. One gentle sister was asked to remonstrate with him, and essayed to do so.

"Sister Lou Compton," said the elder firmly when she had made her plea, "when I am preachin' I don't see right at de devil, and it's only when somebody gets between me and de mark dat he's liable to be hurt."

GOLD DUST will sterilize your kitchen things and make them wholesome and sanitary

GOLD DUST does more than clean—it sterilizes and leaves your kitchen things sanitarily safe. The ordinary soap-washed utensil is not fit to eat from, because soap does not cleanse as thoroughly as it should—does not kill germs of decay which are bound to lurk in oft-used utensils.

Besides its cleansing virtues, GOLD DUST has the merit of doing work quickly, and saving your strength. It will do most of the cleaning without your assistance, and do it, too, in a quicker and more thorough manner than will soap or other cleansers.

GOLD DUST makes pot and pan spick and span.

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Desperate Desmond

We could tell you the Latin name of that spider, but we won't. The English language is good enough for us. The insect is known as the bear-cat spider, and you could call it worse names than that without insulting it. The fact that it is willing to associate with Desperate Desmond shows its character plainly enough.

Here is our old friend, Simrod Jones, the faunal naturalist. He is fishing, but he isn't having much luck. When it comes to catching fish, the greatest scientist in the world is no better than a freckle-faced kid with a dog's nose in A, B, C's. But wait! Simrod is making another cast. Maybe he'll catch something.

We forgot to tell you that Simrod Jones is only a few feet away from the spot where the bear-cat spider is getting ready to devour poor Rosamond. As he throws his line back the fly drops down in front of the spider, and you know how fond spiders are of flies. Remember that old rhyme, "Won't you come into my parlor?" etc.

Following his natural instincts, the spider makes a grab at the fly and is hooked just the same as if he were a fish. As he is yanked through the air at the end of the line Claude, who has lost sweet Rosamond's hat, leaps up in his claws and knows that there has been foul play. He suspects Desperate Desmond.

Hooray! Claude Eclaire and Simrod Jones to the rescue! Desperate Desmond is caught red-handed. Now for revenge! If one hero can only persuade the wild man to keep their hands off he can put him behind the bars, and then it will be all over but the shouting. Will Claude succeed? Will Simrod be able to get the best of Desperate Desmond? Will Rosamond be saved? Will Desperate Desmond be allowed to escape? Will Claude Eclaire and Simrod Jones be allowed to live? Will Desperate Desmond be allowed to live? Will Rosamond be allowed to live? Will Claude Eclaire be allowed to live? Will

MOTORISTS OUT TO GREET SPRING

By J. C. KERRISON.

The first real breath of Spring, entered yesterday, brought countless numbers of motor vehicles out on the roads. It really seemed as if everyone who owned a motor car was out enjoying a taste of the delights of the out door riding season. Everywhere one went one was sure to find some of the men, and likewise the women who motor, and few met the road rule that are usually encountering during the early Spring. But yesterday the roads were in admirable condition, the weather was superb, and everything conducive to an allover pleasure.

Some took all-day trips, but the great majority were content with short rides through the boulevards and park systems, or to some nearby resort. The latter attracted some of the motorists, but they lingered no great length of time, for pleasures of riding and driving being too attractive to permit of any long stop.

Andrew Anderson of Boston and Wayland, proprietor of the Hotel Harendon, will be traveling between his home and his hotel six day now in a new Welch limousine car, the one which attracted much attention at the recent automobile show.

This car was designed by E. E. Wood, manager of the Welch Motor Company, who designed the famous $10,000 limousine suite of Nat Goodwin, which was a mode of luxury.

The new one which Mr. Anderson has purchased has an all-weather limousine seating seven. Both chauffeur and passengers are sheltered by the Welch landau, which is detachable for fair weather riding. But the auxiliary landau car or the limousine has to be removed from the chassis and a touring body substituted for open car use. But in Mr. Anderson's car, the top of the limousine can be changed to a torpedo touring body for summer riding.

Mr. Anderson is having a rope top made for the car for Summer use, but nothing now for the rope top to be completed before riding the car.

This Welch limousine is rated at 50 horse-power, but will develop 80 horse-power. It has a white body with light brown trimmings and is upholstered in leather to match.

It is equipped with self-starting device and Jordan demountable rims which allow tires to be taken off or put on in ten seconds.

Membership in the Manufacturers' Contest Association is increasing rapidly. Within the last two months twenty new automobile makers have joined, making a total roster to date of forty-eight. While in the next month at least twenty more are expected to become affiliated with the association.

The more to interest the commercial car makers, which began at Chicago during the Chicago show, has proved to be a step in decidedly the right direction. The manufacturers of utility motor vehicles appreciate the great benefits that well-managed contests will play in the future of their business. In Germany, France and England the records made in regularly organized commercial car contests form a potent selling argument referred to by prospective customers as a business maker. These records must be accurate, fair and not give a misleading impression.

The Manufacturers' Contest Association has now in hand preliminary data as a basis for the reconstruction of the Glidden Contest Board of the American Automobile Association as to what should be the rules to govern commercial car contests.

When Pay-as-You-Enter Cars Arrive

"HAVE EXACT FARE OR TRANSFER READY BEFORE BOARDING CAR."
"BABY CARRIAGES MUST BE FOLDED BEFORE PLATFORM."
P-A-Y-E
"WAITING A BACKACHE DAY"
"YES DEAR PUBLIC HERE IT IS, READY TO CLOSE YOUR OUTSTRETCHED HAND IN A WARM EMBRACE AND TENDER YOU'LL HEARTY SUPPORT."
"NEVER AGAIN THIS"
"DID I GET YOURS?"
"SURE! I PAID MY FARE"
"THE POLICE"

You are going to "pay-as-you-enter" pretty soon.

The Boston Elevated Railway Company expects its first batch of ten of the new style "pay-as-you-enter" trolley cars, to be delivered for use in this city in April. These ten new cars will be tried on out lower surface lines, not in the subway.

The idea of the pay-as-you-enter trolley is just what the name says. You have your nickel in hand and pay your fare when you go in. The conductor stays on the back platform all the time. He doesn't have to worm his way through a crowded car and collect fares en route.

There is another advantage, after passengers become used to the idea of having their nickels ready. Having paid your fare once, you are not disturbed again by having to pay fare after being seated and placed in your newspaper.

Wherever these cars have been tried patrons have objected at first on the ground that waiting at the entrance caused delay. The latest test of this car in San Francisco showed that twenty-one passengers boarded a car in twenty-one seconds.

SAYS MORSE IS GOING INSANE

Though Warden Moyer of the United States penitentiary in Atlanta, where Charles W. Morse is a prisoner, denies that Morse is going insane, John F. Gaynor, the former federal contractor just released from the same prison, declares positively that Morse is losing his mind.

Dispatches today from New York quoted Gaynor, who was en route to his son's home in Syracuse, as saying:

"Morse is going crazy. He is losing his mind from imprisonment and worry. I told Mrs. Morse about it Saturday and she is frustrated.

"Morse is ill, both mentally and physically. Even now one can see that his mind is failing. I feel sure that, unless he gets out of the penitentiary, he will be insane before long.

Man, here's news of freedom—freedom from everything that ever spoiled a pipe smoke. With a spirit like that of '76, millions of men are declaring their independence of joy-killing, tongue-blistering, ordinary pipe tobacco and are loading up their jimmy pipes with

PRINCE ALBERT

"the national joy smoke"

Prince Albert, the tobacco that can't bite your tongue. Prince Albert, the tobacco that's produced in the big, progressive, American spirit of giving you a better pipe smoke than you've ever dreamed of. Perfect flavor and fragrance, long-burning, close-fire.

But man, big things don't come in pairs. Prince Albert is produced by an exclusive patent process that we control—the process that takes out the bite. Avoid "justasgoods."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

The market acts as though a consolidation had been made between the owners of money and the owners of stocks to prevent any transactions until the few questions of importance remaining unsettled are settled by the Supreme Court, the Congress and the President.

$ $ $

With hundreds of millions of profits standing to the credit of wealthy banking interests, there is an absolute refusal to sell. At the same time, sporadic buying movements are immediately checked by free offerings of stock by the largest interests.

$ $ $

The deadlock in the market has become impressive and almost sensational in view of the tremendous deals that are quietly being worked just out of the public's sight. Syndicate operations involving huge sums of money are being arranged, and when the deadlock is finally broken the whole financial world will seethe with activity. The older and more experienced heads, and those having the largest interest of the money, seem to agree that the activity will result in higher prices in the stock market for a few months at least.

$ $ $

The period of dulness in the stock market has been followed by a display of humor on the part of the managers of the New York Clearing House. They have announced solemnly that they proposed to confer with the strongest and most conservative trust companies with the view to having the trust companies work in close touch with the Clearing House. Since both the national banks and the State trust companies are now under the same control, conferences are unnecessary. J. P. Morgan bows the order and settle it at once.

$ $ $

In view of the concentration of ownership, whereby fewer than half a dozen men absolutely control the banking deposits of New York city, stock market operations have become hazardous. Brokers dealing heavily in stocks must necessarily borrow money from banks and tender as collateral the stocks purchased. In this way the banking interests can learn who is active in the market. What stocks are weakly held, and, by going a step further, can get the name of the individual customer. It is only when the great public buys or sells that the banking interests will lose the power to dictate what shall be done. Reports that the public has lost interest in speculation are absurd, for the speculative spirit never dies.

$ $ $

National Biscuit has begun the year under auspicious conditions. Monthly increases for the past three months have been between 10 per cent. and 15 per cent. The singular feature of its sales is that they increase with the fall of production—a 5 or 10-cent package of crackers has been found proof against loss of business even in periods of general panic or prostration. Sales have never shown a decrease of 5 per cent. in any one year since it began business. It is a steady grower rather than spectacular. Another feature is the very large percentage of perishables contrasted with bulk goods which it produces. National Biscuit devotes 75 per cent. to 80 per cent. of its output to package goods and controls well over 90 per cent. of the package goods business of the United States. Net profits will this year leave the benefit of materially lower flour and other commodity prices. Lard, for instance, is four cents per pound cheaper than a year ago. Flour is 10 per cent. less than a year ago. The company easily earned almost 10 per cent. for its common last year. It is likely that profits for the $29,236,000 common this year will touch 12 per cent. Such an event would to all probability mean at least an 8 per cent. rate for this stock.

STOCKS LAG IN N. Y. MARKET

NEW YORK, March 27.—Trading was sluggish at the opening of the stock market today although the tone was steady. In the absence of week-end orders many of the issues were unchanged. Although the United States Supreme Court was not in session and there was no chance for decisions in the anti-trust cases today the outcome was said by traders to be the big factor.

Union Pacific, Reading, U. S. Steel, Chesapeake & Ohio and Southern Pacific were all unchanged in the first half hour of trading. Consolidated Gas and Atchison were up ¼ and Northern Pacific was off ¼. Canadian Pacific made by far the best showing, opening ⅝ above Saturday's close.

The curb market opened quiet but steady. Americans in the London market were quiet but fairly firm with advances of from ⅛ to ⅝ where changes were shown. The possibility of early peace in Mexico helped Mexican railways in London.

PROBE NEW TAX DODGING CASE

District Attorney Pelletier began to-day another investigation into the Quincy Adams Shaw tax case, and it may go to the Grand Jury, which is meeting this week. The three executors of the Shaw estate will be called before the Grand Jury to explain the charge by Mayor Fitzgerald that they undervalued the estate by $15,000,000, and the members of the Boston Finance Commission are likely also to be called on to explain why they accepted the recent roster of almost $500,000 of the taxes due on the real value of the estate.

The District Attorney may also be called on to investigate the alleged deal by which the city, it is asserted, was cheated out of $82,000 in taxes on the old Art Museum property in Copley square. The Mayor to-day sent a request to the Finance Commission to take the matter up with Messrs. Moses Williams, John P. Reynolds, Jr., and J. Montgomery Sears, the Copley Square Trust trustees, and see if they will follow the example of the Shaw executors in realizing a "moral obligation" and pay about $82,000 in back taxes.

This trust was organized to buy the Art Museum property in 1902, but the deed was held in escrow for seven years, and the Messrs. Sears assented because the Board of Assessors supposed the Art Museum property, still held in escrow, which was non-taxable so long as it was used for museum and educational purposes.

WIRELESS CALLS AID TO LIGHTSHIP PATIENT

NEWPORT, March 27.—The torpedo boat Morris has returned here from the lonely Nantucket Shoals lightship, carrying to the Naval Hospital William L. Sawyer, first-class electrician and wireless operator of the lightship, who is seriously ill with malaria. Sawyer's assistant picked up the message by wireless that two members of the lightship's crew were sick and in need of hospital treatment, and the Morris responded. It was found, however, that one of the two referred to needed only slight attention.

The Fire Horror Lesson That Boston Must Heed---Could a Like Disaster Occur Here?

Human sympathy is no small recompense in a great human tragedy like that of New York's girl fire horror. And that city to-day HAS the sympathy of the nation.

In Boston to-day nearly every man and woman read the pathetic details of the death-fire. They talked about it in lowered tones. It was as if a sister or a brother or a sweetheart had been one of the victims.

New York's sorrow saddened the WHOLE CITY OF BOSTON. More than that, it hung A PALL OF GRIEF OVER EVERY OTHER CITY in the United States.

Chicago, with her tear-dimmed memory of the Iroquois Theatre fire; San Francisco, recalling devastating flame; Galveston, the wreckage of the gulf's storm fury; Baltimore, St. Louis—in all these cities and hundreds more of them the soul-crushing story of New York's holocaust was read almost as though it were their own.

Through the medium of the newspapers, with their graphic stories and their photographs, the cities of the country have been brought together as ONE GREATER CITY, and the people of the country as brothers and sisters, knit more closely together in friendship by a common sorrow.

BUT IS THE LESSON TO BE LOST ON THE CITIES OF THE UNITED STATES?

IS IT TO BE LOST ON THE PEOPLE OF BOSTON?

THERE ARE MANY, MANY FIRE TRAPS IN THIS CITY. EVERYBODY KNOWS THIS TO BE TRUE. BUT WHAT WILL THE CITY OFFICIALS AND THE OWNERS OF THESE BUILDINGS DO AT ONCE—NOW!—TO MAKE THEM SAFE?

IT SEEMS TO BE PERFECTLY CLEAR THAT THE NEW YORK FIRE WAS REALLY COMMERCIAL MURDER—A SLAUGHTER OF INNOCENT YOUNG GIRLS, SENT TO THEIR AWFUL DEATH BY CUPIDITY AND STUPIDITY AND BRUTAL OFFICIAL NEGLECT OF DUTY.

BOSTON SHOULD HEED THE WARNING. IS NEW YORK'S AWFUL LESSON TO BE WASTED HERE?

The Mind That Wanders Wastes

At the Very Foundation of Success Is the Power to Keep Your Mind and Thought Fixed

Copyright, 1911, by American-Journal-Examiner

Every one of us has realised the danger of letting the mind wander and waste itself in a mass of things—NONE OF THEM EVER TO BE FINISHED.

We all know that to go at one thing and keep at it is the only way to succeed.

Life and its achievements are made up of a constant fighting against the temptations to wander and scatter. It is only by bringing ourselves back to the truth, violently and determinedly, every little while that we can keep going ahead, keep our footing mentally, and gradually gain ground, instead of sliding back.

After thirty a majority of human beings GO BACKWARD. Many of them do not know it, fortunately for them, as it spares useless suffering. Only a few really make any progress after the thirtieth year is passed. With most men that is the age when mental activity slackens, when ideas become settled, petrified, no longer productive.

The few that mean to go ahead, that are determined to make use of the real years of thinking which lie between thirty and eighty, must keep at it themselves, whip themselves mentally, as a cruel driver whips a tired horse, FORCE THEMSELVES TO CONSTANT EFFORT BY SELF-REPROACH AND STERN CRITICISM.

We should often stop and ask ourselves:

How is MY mind working? What am I doing with the energy that my father and mother gave me? What use am I making of the experience and the knowledge acquired thus far in life?

WHAT ONE BIG AND IMPORTANT THING AM I WORKING AT WITH ALL OF MY POWERS?

Few of us can give any definite or satisfactory answer. Most of us are forced to confess that we are drifting along, like chips floating on a stream.

We are going as the others go, going the way the current takes us. We flap our mental fins feebly, occasionally, to make ourselves think we are swimming, but ninety-nine times out of a hundred we are merely DRIFTING.

Every man ought to say to himself—IF YOU HAVEN'T ANY REAL OBJECT IN LIFE, HOW CAN YOU EVER ATTAIN ANY DEFINITE OBJECT IN LIFE?

A captain at sea without compass, chart or letter of instruction telling him where to go with his cargo or passengers would be a comic sight. We would all laugh at such a captain.

But he would be no more ridiculous than a human being out in the middle of the ocean of life with no definite plan.

Most of us are drifting derelicts. We say to ourselves that some day we shall go SOMEWHERE. When the right moment arrives, we tell ourselves, we will do SOMETHING.

But time goes by—IT never stops—and the few days and years of opportunity slip away. Each as it goes makes the will a little less strong, each makes self-excuse more easy THROUGH HABIT. By and by comes age and then the end of life—and one more "nobody in particular" is put back into the ground whence he came.

Do SOMETHING. Make up your mind that you will do something, not from personal, foolish vanity, but because you intend to be worthy of the human race to which you belong; you intend not to disgrace the men that have lived and achieved here on earth before you.

Above all, let us offer ourselves no feeble excuses. Let us not de-

No Mystery Is Too Baffling for Him

OH MR. SHERLOCKO, BURGLARS HAVE BEEN IN OUR HOUSE! COME QUICK!
WATSO, ORDER A TAXI,—THIS LOOKS INTERESTING!!
RIGHTO!
I WAS AT A SUFFRAGETTE MEETING, AND WHEN I GOT HOME I FOUND THE DINING ROOM LIKE THIS. TWO MEN JUMPED OUT OF THE WINDOW AS I CAME IN!
STRANGE
YES, BUT THEY TOOK TWO DOLLARS OF THE FIFTEEN I HAD IN THIS VASE!
WATSO, DOESN'T IT STRIKE YOU AS VERY STRANGE THAT THEY DIDN'T TAKE ALL THE MONEY?
QUITE SO!
WHAT'S THIS? POKER CHIPS! STRANGE TOOLS FOR BURGLARS!
MOST EXTRAORDINARY!
BY THE WAY WHERE IS YOUR HUSBAND?
HE DOESN'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT IT,—HE WAS IN BED ALL THE TIME!
I'LL GO UP AND ASK HIM A FEW QUESTIONS
NOW, MR. HENPECKO, CONFESS! — THAT BURGLAR STORY IS NO GOOD!
DON'T BETRAY ME! WE WERE HAVING A LITTLE GAME OF POKER AND THE WIFE CAME HOME EARLIER THAN I EXPECTED (AND ALMOST CAUGHT US!)
BE EASY ON HIM, OLD TOP,—WE MEN MUST STICK TOGETHER!

Percy and Ferdie Bury the Hatchet and Combine Against Hotbunn.

WELL— MUTTONHEAD HOTBUNN SEEMS TO HAVE SUPPLANTED BOTH OF US IN THE AFFECTIONS OF MISS PATRICIA, LET'S BURY THE HATCHET, JOHN FORCE, AND DO HIM.
SHAKE!
MISS PATRICIA IS DRESSING. SHE'LL BE DOWN IN A HALF HOUR. WON'T YOU COME IN?
NO— TRIP AND I WILL TAKE A LITTLE WALK
BY JOVE— IT'S HOTBUNN WITH MISS PATRICIA'S DOG. I'VE A SCHEME QUICK— BEHIND THE FENCE!
AH HA! HOTBUNN'S GOOSE IS COOKED! PICTURE THE BOOB WHEN HE TELLS MISS PATRICIA HER DOG'S LOST. COME HERE, LITTLE ONE, WE NEED YOU.
FOR EFFECTIVENESS, WE'LL SMEAR HIM UP A BIT. HEY— KEEP QUIET YOU LITTLE MUTT. IT'S ALL FOR THE BEST.
WE'LL TAKE ALONG THIS CAN AS EVIDENCE.
OH WHAT WILL I DO MISS PATRICIA? I WAS TAKING TRIP OUT FOR A LITTLE EXERISE AND HE DISAPPEARED IN THE MOST UNACCOUNTABLE MANNER. I SEARCHED FOR HIM ALL OVER THE NEIGHBORHOOD.
WRETCH! AND DID YOU DARE COME BACK WITHOUT HIM?
IS THIS YOUR DOG MISS PATRICIA? WE FOUND THE FOUR ANIMAL WITH A PAIL TIED TO HIS TAIL BEING CHASED BY A GANG OF HOODLUMS OVER ON THE EAST SIDE.
HERE'S THE CAN! LOOK AT THE SIZE OF IT? DOGGONED SHAME! ANY MAN WHO'D BE SO CARELESS AS— WELL, I HATE TO SAY IT.
NOT A WORD SIR! LEAVE THIS HOUSE IMMEDIATELY.

The Mind That Wanders Wastes

ceive ourselves by saying that we would do better if conditions were otherwise.

There is no condition in which a man cannot, by mental concentration, determined effort, self-denial and self-control, make himself worth while in the world.

Of the five greatest men that have lived in the world, one undoubtedly was Newton, who discovered the law of gravitation, and enabled men to form a definite idea of this universe.

There was a man who worked year after year, patiently, determinedly, at the task which he had set himself. Life was not made easy for him. He was one of the great army of small clerks—and that is the army in which you hear most often the complaint, "I can't do anything BECAUSE I HAVEN'T ANY CHANCE."

Newton was glad to earn a living by working away at his clerkship, and at the same time he earned IMMORTALITY by tremendous concentration of his wonderful brain on the problem of the universe.

Another of the world's five greatest men was Michael Angelo. Consider the marvelous fact that in that one man's brain there was contained THE GREATEST SCULPTOR, THE GREATEST PAINTER, the very greatest ARCHITECT that the world has ever known.

How did this man achieve such marvels? How did he make such incredible use of the power within him? He worked with determined concentration from his boyhood. When a mere lad they gave him a great block of marble rejected as useless because it was defective. Out of that block the boy Michael Angelo produced the wonderful statue of "David with the Sling." That statue alone is worth infinitely more than all the work done by all the artists, sculptors and architects of the last hundred years.

From that day when he began as a boy Michael Angelo worked steadily, faithfully, ceaselessly, thinking only of his duty, until he laid down his tools and died, past eighty years of age.

Another of the five greatest men that have lived in the world was Beethoven, greatest of musicians.

He indeed was a man that might justly complain of the harshness of fortune. Ill-treated, overworked as a child by his drunken father, cursed with ungrateful relatives, disappointed in his personal hopes, and afflicted at the last with absolute deafness, which gradually grew upon him until he could not hear a note of his own beautiful music—such was his history.

How many of us Americans would excuse ourselves for absolute failures had our experience been that of Beethoven?

His mother was a cook—fortunately, a good, loving mother—his father a drunken musician. His childhood was miserable, his manhood unhappy.

But Beethoven knew that he had power; he was determined to EXPRESS that power, and nothing stopped him. When absolute deafness had settled upon him—HE STILL WROTE HIS WONDERFUL MUSIC.

One of his most beautiful sonatas was composed and produced by him in Vienna, when, leading the orchestra to please the public, he could not hear a single note, and went through the motions of conducting simply by watching the first violin.

There was concentration of the human mind; there was determination.

Another of the five great men of the world was Archimedes—of whom is said that his brain achieved such wonders in science that nothing new was added to man's knowledge in the scientific world for a thousand years after he died.

Of him we know less than of others. But we know that everlasting CONCENTRATION AND DETERMINATION were the factors in his success, as in every great success. He was studying the problem of establishing the comparative weights of metals and other substances. Incidentally he wanted to know whether the King had been cheated by inferior metal put in his gold crown.

Suddenly the discovery came to him when he was in a bath. He jumped out and rushed down the street with nothing on, crying, "Eureka! Eureka!" which meant that he had found what he was looking for. You can be quite sure that this man's mind was on his work all the time. When he was taking his bath he wasn't thinking what a fine man he was; he wasn't asking himself whether there were any people in the world as clean and as neat as he; he wasn't admiring his muscles or reflecting on the marvelous perfection of his toes. HE WAS THINKING ABOUT HIS MAIN WORK, AND HE FOUND THE IDEA HE WAS LOOKING FOR. He was at work at his problems when he was killed by a soldier.

Of the world's five greatest men, Shakespeare is the fifth—that is to say, he is among the five, for they are all equally great in different lines of genius.

Unhappily, we know little about Shakespeare's personal life, but we know that he was a poor boy, born in a miserable little house, of which the chief ornament was a muck-heap before the door. He was punished for poaching—that is, for taking game on some nobleman's preserve—beaten and probably jailed. He went to London poor, he held horses for a living outside of the theatres, and was glad to run errands for a penny.

He worked his way from the sidewalk into the theatres—and by work that is marvelous from every point of view he made himself the absolute king among all the writers that have ever lived on earth. He did this BECAUSE IT WAS HIS NATURE TO DO THE VERY BEST THAT HE HAD IN HIM. HE DID NOT KNOW WHAT HE WAS DOING. HE DIED WITHOUT HAVING THE SLIGHTEST IDEA THAT HE WAS EVEN MODERATELY GREAT AMONG THEM THAT HAVE LIVED.

He knew that his verses would last, and he said so boldly. He could not have had the power to write as he did without having the power to know that the writing was good. But he attached little importance to himself and his work. He died a comparatively young man, and yet it may be said that practically all of the few VERY GREAT things that have been written since speech was invented are the products of the brain of Shakespeare.

Every one of the greatest men that have lived in this world worked AGAINST ADVERSE CONDITIONS, had every reason to complain and every reason to say, "How can you expect me to do anything?" Let us remember THAT when we excuse ourselves.

We must remember that the only real power is THE POWER OF THOUGHT. Thought alone makes progress; thought alone has changed the world from a savage wilderness to what it is now, and thought alone will ultimately bring real civilization.

There are many elements in success, but they are all based on thought. Thought gives self-control; thought gives sobriety, kindness, application.

Let us study first to select our object in life, the work that we hope we can do, and then let us keep the power of the brain CONCENTRATED ON THAT. There is no failure for the man who really tries. We cannot lift ourselves by our own boot-straps. We cannot make a world genius of an ordinary human being. But each man can make of himself a worthy member of the race, and he can earn for himself a title as great as that of any man. For there is nothing more that can be said of a man than this—he did the very best that was in him.
